MALE CALL

STRAIGHT KINK

For as long as I can remember I have always had an interest in B&D, S&M, dominant/submissive relationships, or whatever the hell you want to call it. Harboring these erotic and latent interests all these years has been exasperating to say the least. Coming out of "the closet" as they say will not be easy for me, but I realize it's time. Being a straight, married family man certainly doesn't make things easier either, but where there's a will, there's a way.

Over the years I have attempted to educate myself via a variety of publications in an attempt to understand myself as well as my desires. I stumbled across your magazine, Drummer, in an adult bookstore a couple of years ago and have purchased it at retail ever since. Now, no one carries your magazine locally any more. I cannot subscribe right now for a variety of reasons, but maybe things will change.

As mentioned, I am a straight male, and though the sexual content of Drummer does nothing for me, I still think it is the best publication out today that deals with dominant/submissive relationships and the lifestyle. In comparison to the heterosexual leather community and the myriad of publications that have arisen over the years, they don't hold a candle to Drummer. Particularly when it comes to dealing with the very essence of one yielding to another, regardless of one's sexual orientation or however your fantasies may manifest themselves.

I would like to take this opportunity to make an observation insofar as the Gay Leather Community is concerned, in general. You people really have your shit together! You are very well organized and represented and, most importantly, very tolerant of non-gay advocates such as myself.

I recently received an invitation to attend an area meeting of the NLA and, though it was understood that I'm straight and it was honestly explained that most of the members were gay, sexual orientation was not an issue. I was flattered to say the least.

In conclusion, let me say that I really enjoy your magazine and I am extremely impressed with the Gay Leather Community as a whole. I'm continuing with my education and I hope I can represent the Hetero Leather Community with the same pride, dignity, and understanding that has been extended to me.

Sincerely,

Gary/Lawrence, KS

PLAYING ON BOTH EDGES

I just saw the latest issue of Drummer #148 and would like to offer my comments: Ha-Ha-Ha-Ha-Ha-Ha (Puke,retch). How fucking bad can any publication possibly get! The poor dead horse is still not just being whipped, it has been reduced to a skeleton by vultures long ago.

Please put it out of its misery with dignity!

Yours in astonishment,

HM/Bridgeport, CT

Just finished your latest issue and its intense article by Joseph W. Bean about "Playing on the Edge." It's about fuckin' time that these "taboo subjects" were brought into the light of understanding.

The last paragraph basically sums up what I personally endured a number of years ago, and though I've searched for the same intensity for over 8 years, I've never been able to find it again. I've advertised in your magazine (among others) a number of times, but no luck. Because of the intensity I desired, I had to couch the ads in metaphors, hoping some Top would be intelligent enough to read between the lines. (I even travelled to Arizona in response to supposedly significant correspondence, but it was a bust [my letter in Drummer 117.]

Very simply put, I enjoy being transformed into a animal for extended periods of time, using SM & BD both physical and mental to achieve desired effects. Mr. Bean aptly identifies this "sexual encounter" as "intense, active identification as a dog or other animal, and even certain approaches to sexual slavery." I enjoy not only the forced metamorphosis (brain washing and post-hypnotic suggestions as my humanism is replaced by animalism) but living in an accurate environment. I like being a horse, and being owned by an intense, caring Master.

Fantasy? Hardly. I was involved in this particular scene for over 16 months with a mentally sadistic NY Cop. He enjoyed this particular control over his animal slaves. Strange as it may seem, safe sex was the norm. He got himself off on the bondage he inflicted mentally. Initially, the bottom did not know what was happening, and by the time changes became more obvious (behavioral modification) it was too late. The bottom was captured in a psychological net. It was a superb test of wills in a "safe" mind fuck, and the bottom usually lost. During my period of "animal training" I was taken care of and my physical needs were consistently met, being given my own stall, enough food, impeccable hygiene, and non-destructive tack to wear.

I have tried everything to find it again. When discussed in quiet tones within the "S/M Leather" community all I've encountered is bigotry & prejudice. I'm considered perverted and/or crazy. If it doesn't hurt anyone else, who cares. Over the years, I've been the butt of many jokes by the leather community because I'm not turned on by conventional "gay sex" (sucking, fucking and traditional SM & BD). I just get off being transformed into a farm animal (against my will) and living that way for a set period of time, being totally submissive to my new Master's needs.

Lastly, a brief note to Kai. I understand and I really feel for you. I understand the intensity you know and need, and the ownership you so desperately want as a dog. I had it as a horse and lost it too. Not by death as you did, but I lost it by a lack of total servitude toward my potential Master. I wasn't ready to relinquish my last vestiges of humanism. I just couldn't trust that far. Now, like you, I search in vain. I hope you're luckier than I am.

CAUTION

Every decision a person makes, including the decision to get out of bed in the morning, has some degree of risk associated with it. We strongly believe that each competent adult must set for themselves the level of risk he or she is willing to accept. Some avoid crossing streets in heavy traffic—others stunt-ride motorcycles without a helmet. However, to intelligently confront and accept risk, a person must understand the dangers.

While Drummer hopes to educate its readers on a wide variety of topics, its main purpose is to entertain! Works of fiction presented in this magazine are just that—fiction! They are not in any way intended to suggest or describe activities that anyone should—or often could—actually do. They are meant for entertainment only. In other than fictional pieces, we will emphasize safe sex with respect to contagious diseases, and safe and sane behavior with respect to all activities, and will try to point out all activities which deviate from recognized safe-sex and safe-and-sane play activities.

ROUGH STUFF I

Are We Our Own Worst Enemy?

by Bill Costomiris

One of four "Rough Stuff" columns in this special 150th issue of Drummer.

Many times I have asked myself that question: Are we our own worst enemy? I don't know the answer, but I can give you some of my own thoughts.

Unity and cooperation are common objectives for many in our family. We have made progress, and with each gain comes new hope for the future. Achieving these objectives requires all of us putting the common good ahead of the individual.

As many of you know, one of my objectives has been to bring about a greater degree of cooperation and understanding among the different segments of the Gay Community. Much of my time and energy has been devoted to this effort.

My desire is not unique. It is shared by many other "celebrities." Many of them have worked with me on various occasions and vice versa. Being somewhat naive, I believed that all of them were sincere. Well, I was wrong!

As I look back over the past year, I see that things aren't always as they seem. Some of my sisters and brothers have begun to show their "true colors." At a recent major leather event, I was criticized for several things, among them, being too patriotic, too political, being a non-conformist. While I realize that there will always be differences among individuals, the events that took place really bothered me because they implied discriminatory attitudes. The people who were critical of me were publicly talking about their own desires for unity. You cannot publicly promote unity and privately criticize others who don't conform to your ideas. We are all individuals and we should accept each other as human beings, focusing on our common interests, not our differences.

I now know that there are those whose sole purpose is to test my resolve. They and others like them will try again to shatter my dreams. Again, they will not succeed! It is not easy to find the real person in some people, but they will eventually show themselves. Those who would create dissension must not be allowed to lead us to our own defeat!

Another incident that aroused great concern occurred in Los Angeles after the Pantheon Of Leather Awards in January. Following the cocktail party, along with three brothers, I was invited to join some of our sisters for a drink at a local "women's" bar. We arrived prior to our friends and decided to wait inside. At the door, we were greeted with rudeness and prejudice. I can only surmise that it was because we were wearing leather since there were other men leaving while we were at the door. We were told that the bar catered mainly to women, and we explained that we were there at the invitation of our leather sisters. The management then appeared at the door to inform us that we could not enter because we were not wearing shirts. We did, however, have coats, vests, and harnesses. We left quietly, and I vowed then that I would do whatever I could to eliminate that kind of bigotry.

We argue among ourselves and ridicule each other for many reasons: He's a drag queen. He's a preppie. She's a fem. She's straight. He likes... whatever. Why must we try to destroy ourselves? The straight community need not fear us. We can't threaten them because we're too busy fighting among ourselves.

I have been asked many times how I feel about women in leather. My feeling about women is no different than it is about men. While I have no personal sexual attraction for women, I view them as individuals who have the same right as anyone to their own safe, sane, consensual expression. I wonder why the question is about women in leather. Am I supposed to say that there is no space for women in leather? Women are not the problem, in leather or not. Attitudes are the problem, separatist attitudes from men and women! The problem is revealed in snide little comments like "the women are going there, we don't want to go" or vice versa. And, yes, I have heard that from some "celebrities."

If you think I'm pissed, you're damn right! But much more than that, I'm hurt. People that I have trusted and looked up to have let us down.

Someone has said that leather contests are merely beauty pageants. I disagree. While winning a contest may make us "celebrities," that only makes it possible that we can become leaders. To become leaders, we must have your help and support. It took me some time to realize that leaders can lead only when someone follows. As a leader, I should always listen to others and be open to new ideas and different methods.

Responsibilities come with every title, and it is to everyone's benefit to encourage the fulfilling of those responsibilities. If there were no obligations, then the titles would be nothing more than self-serving. When titleholders care more about cash and prizes than about what they can do for the community, it makes me wonder about their sincerity. I understand the need for financial help, but my first priority is helping my brothers and sisters. I have worked very hard as Mr. Leather Charlotte and, as the Leather Journal's Man of the Year, I will continue to give you all my heart. I really love this family, and want to work with as many of you as possible for as long as possible.

So, where do we go from here? Gaily forward! I will continue to work, and will not give in to pressure. I will not compromise my belief in this family. A very dear friend, Larry Dooley, once told me that a leather person must have three qualities to be accepted in this family as a member and a leader: Honesty, integrity, and dependability. Have we, as a family, lost these characteristic qualities? I hope not! I think that all we need to do is begin emphasizing them again.

The leather/SM community is probably the most misunderstood minority in the world. People are afraid of us because they don't understand. Some are willing to try, and it is those people we should seek out as our allies. Communication is often the best solution to misunderstanding. The task we face is not an easy one, but it is one we can master.

Let us begin with ourselves. First, we have to know who and what we are as individuals. When we have accepted ourselves, then we can more easily accept others. Let us begin to live the unity that we lecture.

While we have not achieved unity, we are becoming more accepting of each other. Limited cooperation is better than no cooperation, but is not satisfactory as the best we can do. If each of us will make a concerted effort to accept just one person that is "different," then we will be well on our way to victory.

Together we can!
In Leather and Love,
Bill Costomiris

LEATHER NOTEBOOK

By Larry Townsend

Dear Larry,

I have been in a monogamous relationship for over seven years. My partner and I are both HIV negative. Our sexuality has evolved greatly over the years and we have recently branched out to include other men as playmates. Several of these guys want us to sit on their faces for prolonged rimming sessions and feeding. My question is, how safe is it to be the Top in a scat scene? I seems to me that this role would be risk free. Is feeding fecal material or food from the rectum any more dangerous than simple rimming? Please advise me of your opinion.

Anxious to dish it out,
San Francisco, CA

Dear Anxious,

There obviously can be no danger to the donor in any activity where no part of his body is penetrated. I suppose one could make the far-fetched case of an asshole with an open sore coming into contact with a similarly injured tongue—the latter belonging to an HIV positive man. However, despite my reluctance to place a stamp of "safe sex" on any activity I consider remotely dangerous, I frankly can't see any risk to you or your friend in what you'd like to do. As to what you might pass on to your guests...well, that's another story. I hope you're playing safe with all these third parties. HIV+ seems to be frighteningly common in the Bay Area. And by-the-by, if you're getting it on with third parties, you are not involved in a monogamous relationship.

Dear Sirs,

In issue #122, Drummer did an article on silicone injections to pump up the nipples to about an inch. I have been using a vacuum pump, and if I tie my nipples after they're enlarged they stay that way until I untie them; then they eventually shrink back to normal. I've discussed the silicone idea with someone, and he said he thought there was a danger of cancer, because I'd be putting a foreign substance into my body. Do you have a doctor on staff who could advise me on this? I hope it wasn't just a fantasy article that you published, because I'd really like to have the procedure done to me if it is safe.

A nipple addict, VT

Dear Addict,

There has just recently been quite a furor in the medical community over breast cancer resulting from silicone implants in women. The problem, apparently, is not so much the silicone, but the plastic container they use to keep it in the area where it's wanted. I don't think anyone can assure you of the operation's being safe right at the moment. I would expect, though, that they will shortly come up with a different kind of plastic. Then it should be business as usual. (Apparently, the silicone itself never comes in contact with the bodily tissue, since it remains sealed in the plastic.)

Dear Mr. Townsend, Sir!:

I'm a young guy, 22, and not bad looking. I really want to be a slave, although I know from reading your things—and comments by others—that I have a lot to learn before I can claim that status. In fact, I've only had leathersex a couple of times. But that's just enough to know that I really want to go for it! I've even got the Master picked out, and I think he's interested in me. (I've been going to a bar near where I live, and he's in there a lot of times.) I've got one problem, and I'd like to know how you feel about it. Despite my having a decent face and body, I've got a really small set of cock and balls. They are so small, in fact, that I'm embarassed to have anyone see them. (I go to a gym, but I never take off my jockstrap, not even in the showers.) Do you think this is going to make a difference to a Master? After all, a slave isn't supposed to use his cock for much of anything, and I'd really be willing to do anything else He wanted—I mean, like getting fucked and taking care of His cock, etc. What do you think? Is the size of a slave's cock of any importance?

Tiny, NYC

Dear Tiny,

It's hard to say how important the size of a slave's cock is going to be to a Master. Even if it is just a matter of aesthetics—i.e., something pretty to look at—there is going to be a great deal of difference between the reactions of one man and another. But what do you have to lose? The worst that could happen would be for the guy to toss you out after the first session—and he might do that, anyway, for any number of reasons that have nothing to do with the size of your dick. If you want this particular Master, I'd say, "Go for it!" And I'd be interested to know what happens. Drop me a note and let me know—assuming, of course, that your Master gives you permission.

Couzo

by Gabriel illustrated by Russell

A timeless tale of cowboys and the ways of the West in which a legendary hand gives a troubled cowpoke
just what he wants.

I could smell the stagnant odor of hay all around me. Hay and manure. The stables always smelled the worst around high noon. Even in the shade the temperatures were rising well over a hundred.

I had stripped off my shirt which was soaked with sweat, and hung it in the sun where it would dry quickly. I went about my duties in the stable. The horses weren't going to take care of themselves.

Jake and Sammy were in the loft fucking away, and making far too much noise for decent people. It was a daily ritual: Jake and Sammy would disappear when the sun got it's hottest to "pitch hay." They'd go up to the loft, but the hay never got pitched, just rolled in. And they thought they were fooling the rest of us. They thought we didn't know, but certain sounds are unmistakable. Like Sammy's religious litany drifting down from the rafters. "Oh. My God. Oh, Jesus! Mother Mary of God, don't stop!" It never sounded like pitching hay to me.

The rest of us ignored it. To each his own, I thought.

Still, as the unmistakable sounds of sex filled the barn, my cock stiffened. I imagined Jake shoving his big, fat pole into Sammy's tight little butt, and found myself oddly stimulated. Jake's sweaty, muscled torso pounding repeatedly into Sammy's lithe body, and Sammy begging for more, no matter how long or hard Jake rode him.

Finally, after what seemed like hours, Jake screamed that banshee noise he makes when he cums, and Sammy shot off with a whimper, and (I know) he got that grin of his, and it wouldn't die even if Cook made liver.

They were sated, and I was stuck with a hard-on, thirty miles from the nearest woman, and sixty from the nearest cat house.

I was right, supper was liver, and Sammy was still grinning. We ate in the big house with Mr. Barkley, the owner of the ranch. He gave us a long-winded pep talk about the cattle drive, but that was nearly a week away so no one bothered to listen. We humored him though, since he paid better than any other rancher in the territory.

My attention, however, was drawn to Couzo, the new guy. We'd all heard of him. Antony Couzo, the stuff legends are built upon. Quite simply, the best cowhand in the territory. He pulled a nine hundred mile drive, with three thousand head, and didn't lose a single one. He handled cattle like no one else, and commanded unheard of respect and loyalty from those who worked with him. Barkley had spent years trying to nab him from the Stimson Ranch, but Couzo wouldn't leave. Suddenly, old man Stimson died, and Couzo became available.

After all I had heard about him, I was surprised to find that he was no older than I was. I expected a man with his experience to be much older than thirty.

He also looked different. Maybe it was the way he carried himself, or his chiseled European features, the result of his Italian background. No, it was his skin. Not the baked leather we all became after years under an unforgiving sun, his skin was lustrous, smooth, and firm, without a blemish save a strong five o'clock shadow. It fascinated me. I was drawn to his face. When he spoke, his voice captivated with a depth that reached the soul. Around the table, fifteen guys sat in awe, all giving rapt attention to Couzo.

Even Sammy's silly, butt-fucked grin had been wiped from his face, replaced by hunger. In Sammy's eyes I saw lust. I saw craving, as if the Devil himself were smoldering in Sammy's brain and groin.

What could cause that? I wondered. What could make a man submit himself to another man?

Couzo's sinewy arm reached past me for a roll, and I caught a whiff of his scent. My head started spinning, and all my attention followed that odor back to the magnificent body it was attached to.

I'm just going stir crazy, that's all. Face it, I haven't been off the ranch in months, and I need a woman. If I could just get to the City some time before the drive, I'd be fine. That's the only explanation. I'll talk to Barkley in the morning.

I woke in the middle of the night, desperate to use the out house. The over familiar sound of Sammy's religious convictions was emanating from the shack. This puzzled me, as I knew Jake was asleep in the bunkhouse. My curiosity overcame my modesty, and I opened the door.

The same magnificent hand that grabbed that roll at supper was thrust up Sammy's butt. I had never seen anything like it in my life. I had never imagined anything like it.

Not just the hand, either. Couzo's arm was buried in Sammy's slim ass, halfway to the elbow. Sammy was bouncing around on it like he was riding a bronco in the rodeo. With each bounce, his ass ate an inch or two more of the thick, muscular arm.

Sammy's hole was stretched open wider than I could ever have thought possible. He kept bouncing, getting closer and closer to the elbow with each pass.

He was Jesus Christing like it was God's own fist up his ass. Suddenly, Couzo's elbow disappeared into that butt hole. Sammy hollered to the holy trinity, and shot a load that never seemed to stop. Squirt after squirt of cum shot out of his cock, while Couzo's elbow was still imbedded in him.

It was the hottest thing I ever saw. I shot my wad then and there without ever touching myself.

The goddam sheets were sticky in the morning. I hadn't had a wet dream since I was a teen. At least I think it was a wet dream. I don't know. It must have been.

I skipped breakfast. I couldn't eat. I had this strange feeling inside of me. Couzo. He was invading all my thoughts. I had to shake this. I saw Sammy in the barn, and was overcome with jealousy. I hated him for being with Couzo in the outhouse, even though it was only a dream. Or was it?

Sammy wasn't expecting it when I jumped him. He put up a fight, but not too much of one. Soon enough, he was tethered spread-eagle between two support posts. My anger had eclipsed my senses, and I reached for the bullwhip.

I brought the whip down hard the first time, with a lash across the right shoulder blade. Sammy screamed, completely unaware of why I attacked him. The second lash came across the left shoulder and went halfway down his back. Another scream, blood-curdling in its intensity.

I brought one lash after another down on his back, the screams melting into moans more and more with each brutal brush of the whip. Fifteen, sixteen. His back was turning bright red, and welting. The crisscross of my strokes created a glowing pattern on his skin.

Twenty-nine, thirty. I had no control of myself. I just kept beating this man. Why? Why did I hate him so much. Couzo. Thirty-seven. I knew I would have to stop. I'd kill him if I kept going. Thirty-eight. Even Jesus only took ... thirty-nine.

I drew my arm up for the fortieth lash. The whip snapped in the air, and caught on something behind me. I twirled around to find myself eye to eye with him, Couzo. His upraised hand still held the belly of the whip where he had caught it in midair.

Silently, Couzo cut Sammy down from the posts. As he passed by me, with the barely conscious man carried easily in his powerful arms, Couzo uttered one word to me.

"Later."

It is as though my body doesn't respond to my thoughts. Or my thoughts to my body. I know this overwhelming lust I feel is wrong. Couzo is a man, and I am a man. How could I want another man? Was I really that animal in the barn with the bullwhip? Who was that? Certainly not me. I am a civilized man.

I needed to get to town. Too much time down on the farm, even the ewes begin to look good. A good five-dollar woman, that's what I needed.

I mounted my horse, and thought of Couzo. I rode across the ranch, and thought of Couzo. I rode into town, and thought of Couzo.

The saloon was crowded, and I headed upstairs to Miss Jane's, only to find that crowded too. It would be two or three hours before one of the girls would be available.

I went out, walked down past the church and the bank, ducked behind the school house, and went into the public baths. I hung my clothes on a hook and looked around. There were a handful of men there. Some of them I knew, like fat Mr. Larsen from the bank, and the new minister, Reverend Wright. Others I didn't know, cowboys and the like, some of them just passing through town.

Even without his clothes, Reverend Wright looked like a preacher. Tall, thin, a shock of red hair tousled about his ears, and a smooth chest with a few of the freckles that so often go with red hair. He seemed lost in thought, staring aimlessly into a darkened corner of the room. I wondered what it was that a naked preacher thought about. God, perhaps. Piety, maybe. What parts of the scripture does he ponder in the altogether.

David and Jonathan? Sodom and Gomorrah? My eyes wandered down his lean torso. Forty years old, I'd say, on a guess. In great condition for a guy who talks for a living though.

That's when I noticed that the preacher had sprung a hard-on.

A big piece of meat, too.

As my eyes adjusted to the dim light, I noticed what it was in the shadows that so fascinated God's earthly voice.

Two cattlemen. One was on his knees in front of the other, sucking on a rock hard dick. The next second, the cocksucker had the whole fucking thing shoved far down his throat.

The standing cowboy motioned to the preacher who eagerly walked over and stuck his face in the cowboy's armpit, licking the sweat and dirt that weeks of riding builds up under the arms.

I watched as the two men worked over the cowboy's body with their tongues. Each worked an armpit until it was clean, then followed the taut lines of muscle all the way down the hard body, and back up again.

The preacher sucked on one tit, while the cocksucker worked on the other. Big protruding nipples, growing even larger with the stimulation.

The sublime sensation was evident from the look on the cowboy's face.

I was awed. Though my curiosity bothered me.... I never took note of "homophiles" before, or even gave the idea any thought, until... until now.

The preacher's tongue snaked up the cowboy's ass. Reverend Wright moaned as he cleaned out the man's butt. The cowboy moaned too. The third man was sucking the cowboy's cock all the way down to the base. I could see the outline of the massive cock bulging the cocksucker's neck out of shape.

I couldn't peel my eyes off the trio. The preacher lapped at the bunghole like manna was being delivered through that passage. The cowboy's thick rod was pounding in and out of the dick licker's throat. The preacher, satisfied with his work on the cowboy's butt, knelt down to wash the man's feet with his tongue. He lapped between the cowboy's toes, and went wild. The cocksucker went for another dive into the man's armpit and, unable to hold back any longer, I went for the vacant pit.

I found myself intensely turned on. I was pumping away at my own meat, and had no idea why. I had no control of my body or my actions.

The cowboy yelled, and I could see his cock head well up and start pumping away. The cocksucker dove for the dick and didn't miss a drop. Shot after shot went right into his gaping mouth.

The preacher shot as well, coating the cowboy's feet with his jism. My own cock erupted too, splattering my chest with semen.

It wasn't until I was halfway back to the ranch that I realized I hadn't gotten what I went into town for in the first place: A woman.

My dreams were haunting. Couzo fucking my ass. My virgin ass. Couzo's big, fat, uncut, Italian cock busting my cherry. I dreamt of his muscled body pounding against mine as he shoved that huge prick up my ungreased butt.

His dick was tearing me apart, bloodying my hole. Pain wracked my body, but I didn't care. It's Couzo's dick, and my ass is his.

Sammy enters the dream, bullwhip in hand, to return the punishment I mercilessly inflicted on him, but I don't care, that's how Couzo wants it. That's fine.

The dream shifted to the outhouse, where I saw myself in Sammy's place, riding Couzo's arm, my asshole stretched beyond recognition. I rode that arm until the elbow disappeared inside me. My ass hugging his arm, my body totally impaled. He tore his limb quickly from my gaping hole, and I woke to find cum still shooting from my cock.

Later, about noon as usual, I headed to the barn to water the horses, my night's dreams unendingly invading my day's thoughts. What was wrong with me? What can I do to put things right? How do I get to suck on Couzo's dick? No!! I must stop this!

That's when it happened. Pow! I was out cold. Someone had come up behind me, and I didn't have a chance.

When I came to, I was naked as a newborn, bound hand and foot with ropes, blindfolded, and gagged. I was in a burlap bag, and hanging across the back of a horse. I had no idea how long I had been out, or how long I had been on that horse. We continued to ride for what seemed like an hour before the horse stopped. Strong arms pulled me off the horse and dumped me out of the bag onto the cold ground. I was still blindfolded, so I could not tell where I was or who my captor was.

Fear and excitement raced through my body. My hands were unbound from behind my back, only to be retied over my head; the rope was thrown over something, a tree branch maybe, and I was hoisted up off the ground.

Out of the void, a fist punched me hard in the gut. Then another punch and another. I swung around like a punching bag as I was winded with each thrust, given no time to catch my breath between punches. No sooner had the punching stopped than I felt the sting of a bullwhip across my ass cheeks. Right cheek, left cheek, each blow harder than the last. I had never experienced pain like this in my life. I tried to scream out, but I was silenced by the gag in my mouth.

I could hear the sound of the whip whistling through the air toward my butt, then cracking across my butt and echoing around me. The pain was so intense. My mind and body were burning in agony. I screamed into the gag, unable to handle it any more. Then my mind shut down. How else could I understand it? My brain just wasn't functioning. I could think of absolutely nothing but the pain. Total, all-encompassing pain. Warm, enveloping pain. Good.

I can't explain it. I don't understand it, but I felt good. No pain, no agony. Just good. This is what life should always feel like. Euphoric. Happy.

I was naked, bound, gagged, blindfolded, hanging from a tree, getting whipped with a bullwhip, and I never felt better in my life. Weird. It stopped. The whipping stopped, I mean, not the feeling. I felt like I was glowing.

The rope was loosened from the branch, and I tumbled to the ground. A body fell on top of me. I was face down in the dirt, and I felt my dick aching against the hard, cold ground.

I could feel the head of a huge dick finding its way between my ass cheeks. My beaten, virgin ass ached with desire for my unknown assailant.

The fat cock head pressed against my anus. Pressure built up until my tiny hole opened and allowed the monster-sized prick to enter. With a blinding flash of pain, followed by a heavenly rush of pleasure, the huge cock ripped into my bowels.

What a feeling! Without hesitation, the prong was forced all the way up my chute, and pulled out again. My head was spinning while my ass was getting plugged. I could feel my ass stretching wider with each hard thrust, opening to allow the invader, meeting the rough demands being made on it.

My stiff rod was rubbing into the dirt, getting harder and more excited, as my butt hole was being sodomized.

I could feel my captor's cock exploding in my ass, and it excited me so much. I shot immediately. My entire body was trembling with pleasure. I was bound, beaten, and past agony, far gone into that world of pure sensation that exists beyond pain. Why was I enjoying this so much? Who cares? Just as long as it doesn't stop.

As I lay there throbbing, cum oozing out of my ass, I could feel a couple of fingers pushing into my newly opened fuck hole. My body reacted with complete independence of my mind, and pushed back onto the fingers, driving them in deeper, needing more.

Another finger worked its way in, and another. Four fingers were massaging the inside of my ass, pulling my hole even further open than the cock had done.

I could feel the thumb working its way in. My asshole pushed back on it.

To hell with the world. To hell with women. All I wanted now was that fist up my bung hole, stretching me open, changing my life forever. I pushed back even further and harder.

Suddenly, a hand grabbed the blindfold from my eyes. I was in the center of the corral on my own ranch. The entire crew was standing around watching.

"It's later," Couzo whispered in my ear, as he punched his entire fist past my sphincter and all the way up my hole.

Now I understood it all.
I was in love. ■

ROUGH STUFF II

Recovery in Leather

by Jack Fertig

One of four "Rough Stuff" columns in this special 150th issue of Drummer.

A new vocabulary is creeping into the leather community. Just as bottled water is proliferating at the bars, so are words like sober, recovery, and clean. The fellow at the bar who's drinking coffee and telling a friend that he "has 5" gets such a gleeful response from his buddies that you know he's not talking about inches, but more likely days, months, or years of abstinence from drugs and alcohol. He's twelve stepping.

"Twelve stepping" is not a country/western dance. It is the recovery process of Alcoholics Anonymous and it is being used for treatment of other addictive and compulsive behaviors. There are also leatherpeople visibly active now in Narcotics Anonymous, Adult Children of Alcoholics, CoDa (Co-Dependents Anonymous), Overeaters Anonymous, and Al-Anon. (Al-Anon was started as a support group for wives of alcoholics. It has grown in purpose to include husbands, children, relatives, lovers, and friends of alcoholics.)

There are also some members of Sex and Love Addicts Anonymous active in the leather world. As in Overeaters Anonymous this is not a program of complete abstinence. Well, hardly ever. The person seeking recovery defines a problematic "bottom line" behavior and abstains from that. For example one Sex Addict has to avoid tea rooms and parks, but enjoys a delicious and explorative leathersex relationship that is good and healthy for him. His partner, an alcoholic who is now discovering memories of sexual abuse in his own infancy, is grateful that they share a background in 12-step recovery programs. This gives them common vocabulary and other tools that help them to be very deeply honest as they explore daddy/boy games, bondage, and other aspects of liberating sexplay.

Although twelve-steppers are committed to anonymity and "a program of attraction, not promotion" they are growing in such numbers that you can't help but notice them. Some folks complain—usually, but not always jokingly—that everyone they know is recovering from something.

"My name is Cub, and I'm an alcoholic, SIR!"

Some people take their recovery dead serious. A growing number know that it can be both important and fun. The old stereotype—quit drugs and booze, sell your leather, retire from fun, and settle into a long, healthy life of dull productivity—is falling by the wayside. At Gay AA conferences "Leather, Sex, and Sobriety" is consistently the most crowded workshop. At Living Sober, San Francisco's annual Gay AA Round-Up, there were six such workshops where sober members of Alcoholics Anonymous wore chaps, harnesses, and boots, some hanging bronze sobriety chips from titrings. (The chips show how long the bearer has maintained his sobriety.)

I always thought "nice people don't do that." It was when I got into recovery and saw people from my church showing up at AA meetings in leather, people whose recovery I respected, discussing bondage and whipping, that I felt free to explore that side of my desires.

Out of five thousand people at Living Sober last year, 250 signed a list to be kept up to date on a round-up for leatherfolk in recovery.

The L/SM Round-Up will be held in San Francisco on the weekend of September 14 and 15, 1991. A variety of events are being held through the year to raise funds and publicize the event.

Thunderdome, a leather oriented dance club, donated space for a benefit for the L/SM Round-Up. The "Soberdome" winter holiday dance included leather Santas and a human menorah. (The child of a very dysfunctional Jewish family reports that the candles on his back transformed and liberated a holiday that had always felt oppressive.) Bare-assed leathermen in chaps and barechested amazons no longer have to get drunk to carry on the way they love to. This first "Clean and Sober" dance was such a success that it has since become a recurring event for the Round-Up.

One of the organizers of the L/SM Round-Up said he thought of holding Mr. and Ms. Sober Leather contests, but some thought that there are already plenty of titles being competed for. Others pointed out that a great many, perhaps a majority of current and recent title holders are already clean and sober. The tradition of anonymity forbids naming names, but some of our most famous leatherfolk are anonymous. Of course, anyone may be "out" about being clean & sober, but participation in the "Anonymous" fellowships discourages individual identification with the fellowship. John Siracusa, Susie Shepherd, and Mark Ryan are all publicly sober, but that doesn't mean they're in AA. If I knew, I wouldn't tell, and according to most AAs, neither should they. In more ways than one, the Leather community is well-represented among sober folk—and vice versa.

Clean and Sober events are not just for people in recovery.

I'm not 'clean and sober'. I just don't drink or get high. I enjoy these dances so I can meet other leatherdykes who aren't on something.

The San Francisco Bay Area chapter of the National Leather Association (which has no specific stand pro or con drug/alcohol use) recently co-sponsored a clean and sober dance with The Trusted Servants, a leather club for recovering addicts and alcoholics.

I enjoy an occasional drink, but I don't really need it to have a good time. The energy here is real clean and it's nice to know I can dance without getting bumped around by guys who are shiftfaced.

For me, SM always involved Speed and Marijuana. You can imagine what my bondage was like—awful, ridiculous tangles. Now, clean and sober, I'm present and clear. I've learned something in AA that's very helpful with my bondage: "Keep It Simple!"

The great numbers of leatherfolk in recovery makes sense if you think about it a little. The seventies provided a necessary adolescence for the leather community. We burst out into new freedoms with great exuberance and experimented with our proliferation of options. Some worked; some didn't. Acid parties, speed runs, and bars were main features of life in the fast lane. Anyone prone to addiction had every opportunity to stumble down that slippery slope. To be sure, some could, and still can, enjoy an occasional drink or a little high now and then. But, then again, some couldn't. Alcoholics, addicts, and co-dependents tend to be driven, compulsive people. They are over-represented in the pinnacles of success, in the gutter, and at the artistic, creative fringes of society. The middle ground is not a comfortable territory for a lot of these folks. Even in recovery, they thrive on intensity.

A surprising number of people in recovery have some body modification. On the front steps of the Castro Country Club—a clean and sober social club—a recent Mr. (guess the region) Drummer showed a tight, shielding crowd of friends his new 6-gauge Prince Albert. Everyone in the group got to talking about their various piercings and more to come.

People say, "You must have been drunk when you got those!" and I have to laugh. I got most of these piercings to celebrate my sobriety anniversaries!

"Each group of Alcoholics Anonymous shall be autonomous, except in matters affecting AA as a whole." So says one of the 12 traditions of AA, and because of that each group varies from others so that each may address the needs of its specific outreach. In upstate New York a Lesbian was told that her recovery would "straighten her out." In San Francisco the same leatherdyke was welcomed as a speaker at a leather oriented meeting of AA.

Leather meetings have sprung up scattered around the country. There are several in San Francisco, along with a Leatherwomen's group of Narcotics Anonymous and a leather oriented meeting of Al-Anon. There are also Leather meetings in San Diego; Los Angeles; and Washington, D.C. In addition there are a couple of clean & sober leather clubs.

The Knights On Iron M.C. started in February 1989 with the purpose of creating a clean and sober riding atmosphere. Owning a bike is prerequisite to membership. Most, but not all of the Knights are in 12 step programs, and of the fourteen men who are members a few can enjoy an occasional drink, although not at club functions! They meet every Sunday to ride, often starting at the Live and Let Live Alano Club. (Alano clubs are social clubs loosely affiliated with A.A. The Live And Let Live Club is a Gay Alano club in San Diego.) The weekly rides are open to visitors.

In San Francisco there is a clean and sober leather club called the Trusted Servants. Bikes aren't mandatory, but one of the requirements for membership is abstinence from drugs and alcohol. This is not a 12-step group, although the great majority of its members, men and women, are active in AA, or Narcotics Anonymous. The Trusted Servants have participated in club runs, provided security for Mr. Drummer contests and other events, and raised funds to provide gifts to a gay recovery house.

The Thirteenth Step is a new men's club planning clean and sober leathersex parties in San Francisco.

Before any of these clubs came together there was a band of clean and sober leatherdykes called the Devil Dolls. True to their strong anarcho-punk style they were fun while they lasted.

Another clean and sober leatherwomen's organization was Interchange, which hosted social events and workshops including a clean and sober leatherwomen's weekend at the Russian River in Northern California. There were differences over organization and structure, so the organizer is now referring inquiries to the Trusted Servants and the L/SM Round-Up.

Some lesbians in recovery "have it" and some have lost their humility. I go to a Lesbian meeting and a woman who's been around for 20 years is totally accepting, but some women with only two or three years are real uptight around my leather. And then there are some women who are first exposed to leather when they see me and other leatherdykes at the meetings.

Within the recovering community leather and SM are getting broader discussion. In a recent issue of Recovering, a monthly newspaper for people in the various 12-step programs, "Rose D." described her experiences as a sex and love addict in the world of S & M (sic). Her experiences of personal abuse were generalized to describe all of SM as abusive. The following issue carried five letters to the contrary—following a lead story about self-abusive cutting.

As a sober leather community is growing, more and more we are seeing the reverse of the old stereotype—that is, "vanillains" getting sober and then getting into leather.

I used drink and drugs to help me be more what I thought I should be, and I can see now that I was drowning out my own true feelings and my true desires. Sobriety demands that I be honest about who and what I am, that I take care of myself, and meet my real needs. Sobriety led me to fulfill the fantasies I had been denying once I saw that I could explore those fantasies and stay sober. I also realized that if I kept denying myself, the frustration and denial would lead me back to drink.

At the San Francisco Eagle bottled water sales have doubled in the last three years. Sodas are offered as an alternative at beer busts. Some sober albies can socialize in bars. Some tend bar.

I used to hang out with the rowdiest, roughest dykes. We'd get real wild and into all sorts of trouble. We'd get rough with each other when we were drunk and would often get hurt, but we weren't into leather! Now that I'm sober I stick with sober leatherwomen and we're much more conscious and careful. Nobody gets hurt.... any more than she wants to.

The L/SM Round-Up is serving as a clearinghouse for Leather oriented 12-step meetings and clean & sober leather clubs. If you have any information, or a request for information, write to P O Box 5547, San Francisco, CA 94103.

SUNDAY MORNING

by David Stevenson

illustrated by Robert Timberlake

Richard Arnold, assistant Professor of Architecture, stood on his front porch, scratched his weekend stubble, and checked his watch. Squinting against the morning sun, he scanned the deserted neighborhood, two picture-postcard rows of meticulously restored Edwardians and Victorians wedged shoulder to shoulder as polite as proper strangers on a crowded elevator. He idly fingered the dense mat of wiry hair on his chest and unbuttoned his shirt. Today was going to be a scorcher.

A lone jogger rounded the corner. He was tall and lithe, with broad shoulders and a narrow waist. Richard's breath caught at the familiar brown hair and trim beard. Today the runner wore white shorts and no shirt; thick chestnut hair accentuated his gym-toned physique.

Richard's dick stiffened. He moistened his lips and smiled invitingly as the approaching man slowed to a walk. "Running late today," Richard shifted his compact body against the door jamb.

The jogger grinned. "Tried a new route," he gulped the air, "around the elementary school," he bent over with his elbows on his knees. "Took a wrong turn and had to backtrack." A fine patina of sweat glistened on his torso. He circled in front of Richard's stoop to cool down. The college insignia decorated his shorts and, through the skimpy tricot, Richard noted the thickly packed jock and white straps across his trim butt.

The man surreptitiously eyed Richard's crotch as he surveyed the empty street. He stopped at the foot of the stoop, his head level with Richard's groin.

"Want some juice?" Richard wiped his sweaty palms on his shirt, his breathing thick and obvious.

"Thanks," the runner shrugged amiably and followed Richard through the door, stopping in the front room as Richard continued to the kitchen. Sunlight reflected off the white walls, illuminating austere furnishings of heavy blond wood, rough hewn and hand made: a large desk in front of the window; a couch, more like an oversized bench with pillows, directly against the back wall; two straight backed chairs flanking the grated fireplace; and a glass-top coffee table with glossy design magazines stacked neatly in the center. There were no pictures on the walls. The bare hardwood floor was polished to a high gloss.

"Orange juice OK?" Richard yelled from the rear.

"Sure," the runner stood in the window and pressed his thighs against the desk, his crotch just above the litter of papers and books. There was also a school drinking mug on the desk, stuffed with pens, and a thickly varnished fraternity paddle with two deltas cut deep, six inches apart to brand separate ass cheeks. He glanced out the window at the fussily painted Victorian across the street, all its windows shuttered or covered with lacy curtains. "Who lives there?" he turned and took the glass from Richard. "I never see anybody outside."

"Over there?" Richard nodded out the window. "Two queens: one's a theatre professor and the other's a hair burner. You come by too early. Folks don't get out around here before noon."

The jogger gulped the juice and held the glass out to Richard. "Well," he smiled slyly.

"Well," Richard took the glass and set it on the desk, moving closer to the runner. "Want to play?" he asked hoarsely.

"What do you have in mind?"

Richard stroked the runner's hairy chest with the back of his hand, pausing at the nipple and squeezing. "Dick the college jock," his husky voice caught.

The runner chuckled. "Let me guess: I play the college jock."

"And I'll be the dick."

The jogger reached for Richard's crotch. "How do you play?" he ran his fingers along the stiff shaft, squeezing the bulge.

"Take your shoes off."

The jogger turned, propped one foot on the desk chair, and unlaced the Nike.

Richard stepped back to admire the graceful arc of leg and ass and back. The thick calves and muscular thighs were covered with a light fleece; a triangle of silky hair on the small of his back disappeared into the shorts.

The runner pulled a key from his sock and tossed it onto the desk, then two crumpled twenties which he carefully, lovingly, flattened and folded. He pulled off his other shoe and stood with his back to Richard, gazing out window.

Richard slipped off his shirt, his burly torso tense with anticipation. He pressed against the man's hot, naked back, nuzzling the nape of the neck and gently fingering the hair on the chest. The jock bowed his head. "I have to leave by ten," he said.

"You rushing me?" Richard pinched the stiff little nipples.

"I got an appointment."

"A john?"

The guy shrugged. "Meeting friends for brunch." He put his hands over Richard's and edged them down towards his shorts. "You think they can see us?" he asked.

"Who?"

"The guys across the street." The jogger sucked in his stomach as Richard's thumbs slid under the waistband and hooked the elastic.

"Are they watching?" Richard inched his right hand inside the jock strap and twirled the thick pubic hair as he looked at the house. He didn't see anyone. He took the pulsing cock in his hand and stroked the shaft. The runner arched his back and threw his hands over his head, reaching back to grip Richard's shoulders.

"Let's show them your dick," Richard pulled down the shorts and jock strap, exposing the large cock and balls. "Nice," Richard circled his fingers around the base and waved the sex in the air. His own cock ached for release.

The man ground his bare ass into Richard's crotch, eyes closed, panting as he rode the bulge.

Richard grabbed the runner's hands and forced them to the back of his neck. "Hold them there," he reached into the desk drawer and withdrew a pair of handcuffs. "Don't want your hands fooling around where they've got no business," he locked the cuffs onto the runner's wrists.

The jock held his hands behind his neck, and Richard returned to stroking the engorged cock. "You make me so goddamn horny," the runner murmured.

"Horny for a man dick up your college jock ass?"

"Sure coach."

Richard backed away. "First, a little hazing, like hell week in the jock houses."

The runner turned. "Hell week?" he grinned.

"A little discipline shows dumb jocks what commitment really means." Richard reached for the paddle. "I saw you eyeing the pledge stick. I'm going to make you an honorary Delt. Lean over the sofa and that cute ass," he slapped the wood against his palm. "On the end directly across from the window." The jogger's cock bobbed in the air as he leaned over, bracing for the first blow, the two perfect orbs of his butt quivering expectantly.

Richard unbuttoned his fly to free his own cock; a drop of pre-cum drooled from his piss slit. His profile through the window showed off his thick shaft and heavy balls. Aiming carefully, he swung the paddle. The wood cracked loudly, driving the runner's head into the cushions. The pale ass reddened with two white deltas faintly embossed on the flesh. "Very nice," Richard readied the stick for the next blow, aiming an inch lower. The wood sailed through the air.

"Christ!" The guy muttered as his shoulders banged into the sofa, his ass muscles clenching and relaxing.

"Let's hear you count, pledge," Richard said, "and ask for more."

The paddle landed square on his ass. "Three," the runner gasped, and another, please."

The next whack buckled the jogger's knees. "Four," he sobbed, "and another, please, Sir." He straightened his legs.

Richard gave him another and another, each time waiting for the runner to recover his balance before slamming the paddle against the welt-streaked butt.

"Ten!" The jock flexed his back and arms, and spread his legs farther apart. The ass cheeks tensed, preparing for the next blow. "One more, Sir," he grunted through clenched teeth.

The blows continued slow and regular and hard on the swelling ass cheeks. Richard stroked the butt fiery red, the deltas melting into a mosaic of cross-hatches. Satisfied, he returned the paddle to the desk and stepped out of his jeans, pulling out a condom, unwrapping it, and carefully smoothing the latex over his drooling cock.

The jogger remained motionless, waiting for the dick. "Fuck, you're big!" he gasped as the thick shaft nudged into his tight crack and pushed against the ass ring.

Richard gripped the runner's waist and pulled, thrusting the guy onto his shaft. The man's legs gave as the ass ring parted, but Richard's firm grasp held the burning flesh against his crotch.

The jock moaned as he regained his footing, bracing against the couch for the rough fuck ahead. "Yeah, man, fuck me," he groaned as Richard's cock slammed in, pounding his guts and nailing his head into the cushions. Again and again, the thick shaft rammed home, knocking his heart into his throat.

Richard flipped the runner over and shoved him down onto the sofa. The man yelped as his ass hit the cushions, and he threw his legs into the air, lifting his butt off the surface. Richard nudged between the runner's legs, pressing his shoulders against the thickly muscled calves and guiding his cock back into the puckering fuckhole.

With the jock firmly impaled on his cock, Richard shoved the guy's hands over his head and secured the handcuffs to a hook under the sofa arm. He scooped his jeans off the floor and pulled out a pair of alligator clamps and dangled them above the runner's chest. "Some jewelry for your tits," he snapped the jaws onto the sensitive nipples. The guy bucked as steel teeth bit into the tender points, jerking his hands helplessly against the restraining bolt.

"So sweet," Richard yanked the chain between the tit clamps, stretching the nipples.

"Jesus!" the runner gasped.

"Shut the fuck up or I'll have to gag you," Richard bent over and kissed the athlete.

The man stopped squirming and hungrily chewed on Richard's lower lip. "Yes, Sir," he murmured, and Richard began pumping his ass slow and hard.

The jock shook his head mindlessly, eyes screwed shut and tears watering his cheeks. His guttural groaning melted into a low moaning ecstasy of rhythmic grunts and sighs. Richard grabbed the runner's head, holding it and kissing the mouth long and deep. The man opened his lips, accepting Richard's tongue, greedily sucking it in; eagerly, passionately, desperately taking all of Richard, devouring him, demanding to be possessed by him. Richard shoved his hands under the jogger's body, holding him tight and locking their two bodies together.

Their mouths parted. "You're fucking good," the jock whispered.

Richard pulled his cock out and stripped off the condom, jerking his shaft as his balls contract and wave after wave of cum spurted onto the runner's chest in thickly milky strings, matting the sweat-drenched hair. Hunching over the athlete, gasping and heaving, he grabbed the man's cock, pulling it, stroking it, working the dick until it too shot onto hairy chest, mingling it's cum with his own.

Richard picked the jock strap off the floor and milked the last drops from his cock into the elastic pouch. "Got any plans for the week?" he asked as he stood up and stepped into his levis, stuffing his still swollen cock into the jeans and buttoning the fly.

"I go to Cleveland on Tuesday. Won't be back until late Thursday."

"A new client?" Richard asked, refolding the jock pouch and tenderly dabbing the teary streaks on the jogger's face.

The runner shook his head. "No. Baxter's considering some new property and wants an estimate on the renovations I suggested. And, Friday I have tickets for Tannhauser with Judy."

"Judy?"

"A girl I met at one of Mike's parties."

"You still see Mike?"

"Rarely. He's got a boyfriend now."

"Is this Judy hot for your dick?" Richard unlocked the cuffs.

"I suppose so," the man rubbed his wrists and grinned sheepishly.

"Going to sleep with her?"

"I haven't made any commitments for Saturday morning," the jock winked.

"Well, save something for me," Richard squeezed the last drop of cum from the man's cock and wiped it on the jock-strap.

"Same time next week?" the jogger carefully removed the tit clamps, wincing as the teeth pulled free.

"Sure," Richard picked up the running shorts and headed for the kitchen. The jogger put on his shoes and waited, his back to the window, blistered ass glowing in the morning sun. Richard returned with the nylon dripping onto the hardwood floor. "The cold water should feel good on your ass," he said.

The man stepped into the shorts, sliding them up his legs and grunting as the fabric pressed against his butt.

Richard pulled two twenties from his pocket.

"You make me feel like a whore," the jogger grinned.

"That's the way I like it," Richard folded the bills and tucked them under the waistband. The guy's cock was clearly visible through the skimpy, wet tricot. "Buy yourself a new jockstrap, and keep the change."

The guy leaned forward, holding his cum-smears chest from brushing against Richard, and bussed him lightly on the cheek. "You know, Richard, I'd move in with you in a minute if you'd just say the word."

"You don't understand," Richard sighed, "it wouldn't be the same."

"It could be better," the jogger ran a finger through the hair on Richard's chest.

"Or it could be worse. Now move your ass or you'll be late for brunch."

"Jealous?" the runner grinned.

"I said move it," Richard slapped the guy's, ass and the runner turned and bounded out the door, sailing over the steps like a hurdler, and hitting the sidewalk running. Richard stood in the doorway and watched the jogger's ass cheeks alternately press red welts against wet nylon. The muscles on the runner's back rippled as his arms swung to the rhythm of his gait. And out of the corner of his eye Richard glimpsed a movement in the window across the street. ■

OLD GUARD

ITS ORIGINS, TRADITIONS, MYSTIQUE AND RULES

by Guy Baldwin

While reading a recent interview with Brian Dawson, I came across some of his comments about the "Old Guard" in the leather lifestyle. Although I used that label in a piece I wrote almost three years ago, I only recently realized that there was a strong likelihood that large numbers of leather guys don't quite know for sure what the phrase, "Old Guard" really means. I'm sure that I have never seen a description of the style (and it is a style), so I want to offer one now. I have carried my own "Old Guard" card in my wallet right next to my Selective Service Registration card (draft card) for long enough that I probably qualify to offer what follows so, here goes...

First, a bit of historical perspective will be more helpful than you might guess. "Old Guard" is really a misnomer—a misapplied name—for the earliest set of habits that jelled by the mid- to late 1950s in the men's leather community here in the U.S. It is very important to remember that the modern leather scene as we now know it first formalized itself out of the group of men who were soldiers returning home after World War II (1939-1945).

For many gay men of that era, their World War II military service was their first homosocial experience (first time being thrown together mostly in the company of other men for significant lengths of time), their first time away from their growing up places, and their first experience of male bonding during periods of high stress. War was (and is) serious business; people died, buddies depended on each other for their lives, and the chips were down. Discipline was the order of the day, and the nation believed that only discipline and dedication would win the war and champion freedom. (Ever notice the especially strong patriotic feelings that happen at leather events?)

Anyway, these gay war veterans learned about the value and pleasure of discipline and hard work in the achievement of a noble purpose. They also learned how to play hard when they got the chance for leave time. Indeed, military life during wartime was (and is) a mix of emotional extremes born out of sure knowledge that one could literally be "here today, and gone tomorrow." Lastly (for these purposes), the gay vets had the secret knowledge that they fought and served every bit as well as straight soldiers, and this information strengthened their self-esteem. All of these things came to be associated with the disciplined, military way of life as it existed during the wartime years.

Although not all gay men of that time served in the military, those who didn't were exposed to the military attitudes through their contact with the vast numbers of military men who were everywhere to be seen and cruised both during and immediately after the war years. In any case, all these things greatly influenced the shape of masculine gay sexualities.

Upon their return to the States about 1946, many of the gay vets wanted to retain the most satisfying elements of their military experience and, at the same time, hang out socially and sexually with other masculine gay men. They found that only in the swashbuckling motorcycle culture did such opportunities exist and so the gay bike clubs were born. It was here that they found the combination of easy camaraderie, the stress and thrill of real risk taking (the riding), and the masculine sexuality that they had known during their military days.

Since one can tell who is and is not in the military only when uniforms are worn, these gay men unconsciously (in most cases) transferred their loyalties to their own uniform—the leather gear of bike riders with a few paramilitary touches thrown in. Club insignia often recalled those insignia of special military units: Thunderbolts, Warriors, Blue Max, and Iron Cross to name only a few. Club members would exchange their insignia with members of other clubs in friendship; christening rituals were transferred from tanks, ships and airplanes to motorcycles and piss was substituted for champagne; the military dress uniform hats became the leather bike caps—all these elements were just as had been during military service.

Incidentally, during the war, the soldiers would often put on skits for their own amusement. Since women were not allowed at the front, some of the men would play the parts of women by doing a kind of mock dress-up (as in one scene from "South Pacific"). Later, this tradition would be expressed in "drag" shows during bike runs. So, masculine men pretended to be pretending to be women—not truly "drag" at all. (It still happens in a few places.)

In any case, being in the military also meant following lots of rules. And just as in the military, there were (unspoken) rules about what you did and did not wear, how you handled your personal affairs, who you could and could not socialize with and more. All this was overlaid with a kind of ritual formalism just as in the military. Those men who were really into dominance and submission, SM, or leather sex tended to take these rules rather more seriously than those guys who simply thought of themselves as butch. The butch ones wore just enough leather to be practical when riding, and those into the exotic sexualities tended to wear more gear than necessary to signal this fact about themselves, but they all hung out together in the same settings. As you might guess, in some cases, any particular person might be into both riding and the exotic sexualities.

Just as an aside here, before and during the war, kinky folks seeking to identify each other would sometimes defensively ask, "Do you play the mandolin or the saxophone?" to discover which of them was the masochist or the sadist by the first letter of these instruments. All this while wearing street clothes! The creation of a butch subculture by the gay vets began to allow people to specialize their sexual interests in a way that had been impossible earlier. Prior to this development, it was not apparent that there were very many ways to be gay.

The bike clubs and the bars where they hung out became the magnets of their day which attracted those gay men who were interested in the masculine end of the gay spectrum, but it was the leather men who defined the masculine extreme at that time. (Nowadays, we know that there are many ways to be masculine.)

This meant that those who had an inclination to kinky action pretty much felt compelled to explore kink in the context of the leather/SM scene since it was the only game in town. If motorcycle riding or black leather itself was not "your thing", that meant one felt obligated to visit the hang outs and look and act the part as much as possible to find one's way into the inner circle of those who looked like they knew something about the exotic sexualities. This meant finding out what the rules of inclusion were (how can I be included?) in order to gain access. To some extent, all this is still true because the attitude still prevails that the "uniform" indicates experience and social access to the Knowledgeable People.

And so, the Scene became EX-clusive rather than IN-clusive, meaning that the people in the Scene understood the rules and tried to keep outsiders out—to exclude them. An outsider became defined as anyone (butch or not) who did not have a primary interest in and experience with the exotic sexualities or at least an interest in motorcycles. (This excluding attitude was probably also reinforced by guilt about being kinky.)

I know that this combination of kinky men mixed in with motorcycle riders may sound a bit odd now, but that's how the Scene worked and, to some slight extent, still does. All through the 80's, with the emergence of kinky organizations and specifically leather/SM events, the motorcycle riding community and the kinky/leather community have grown apart such that now those in one group are pretty much ignorant of or indifferent to the events happening in the other.

This growing separation is more true in larger cities which have the numbers of people that are necessary to support each of these two communities, each with separate needs and agendas. Consequently, many old and venerable bike clubs have experienced a drop in membership and some have disbanded altogether.

But for the most part, kinky people have segregated themselves out from the riders as the process of erotic specialization has continued. Generally, the riding community seems not to have minded this development perhaps because many of the members of riding clubs are either turned off or embarrassed by the erotic visibility of the kinky crowd. Birds of a feather...

But for this discussion, it is noteworthy that many of those kinky people retained the paramilitary trappings, manners and attitudes of that early, core group of returning World War II gay vets. Most importantly, these features of the military mind-set joined with kinky interests and became erotic in and of themselves—became fetishes. These men then, were the original "Old Guard", and so it will come as no surprise that their quasi-military rules of inclusion and exclusion still influence kinky society today.

So, what exactly were the (unspoken) "Old Guard" rules? Here are a few of the more important ones that had prevailed by 1970:

ABOUT ATTIRE

Always wear boots, butch ones, and preferably black.

Always wear a wide black leather belt—plain, not fancy.

Never mix brown leather with black leather.

Never mix chrome or silver trim with gold or brass trim.

Long pants only, Levis or leather, and no shorts.

Chaps indicate more commitment than levis, and leather pants more commitment than chaps, especially when worn consistently.

Leather Jackets must have epaulets (bike riders excepted).

Head gear is reserved for Tops or experienced or heavy bottoms only.

Bottoms may not own collars unless a particular Top has allowed that bottom to be the custodian of the Top's collar. A bottom wearing a collar is a slave, and belongs to the owner of the collar who, presumably, has the keys. Other Tops are not to engage a collared bottom in conversation, but other bottoms may do so. Should such a relationship end, the collar must be returned to the Top.

Never touch the bill of a bike cap, including your own.

Never touch another man's cap (or head gear) unless you are very intimate friends or lovers.

Keep studs and other decorations to a tasteful minimum unless they happen to be club insignia.

Never wear another man's leather unless he puts it on you.

Leather, other than boots and belt, must be "earned" through the achievement of successively challenging "scenes."

Wearing gloves is reserved for heavy players, glove fetishists or bike riders.

If you are cruising seriously, wear the keys out; if not seriously, tuck them in a back pocket..

Always indicate strictly leather sex or "rough sex" interest by wearing no keys at all.

Those who "switch" are second class players and not to be taken as seriously because they haven't made their minds up. If you must switch, do so in another town.

"Full" leather is reserved for after 10:00 P.M. only and only with "our own kind". Respect the public by wearing less of it during the day--don't frighten old ladies (I did once by accident), or anyone else for that matter.

ABOUT SOCIALIZING & CRUISING:

Experience in the Scene determines social seniority (Top or bottom), not age, not size, not amount of leather worn, and not offices held in organizations, awards received or titles won.

Tops and experienced bottoms should be accorded higher respect and deference unless and until they behave rudely—all are expected to observe rules of social courtesy—bad manners are inexcusable and can lower one's status in the Scene (thereby reducing access to the Knowledgeable People for information or play),

Real Leathermen keep their word; they do not borrow or lend money; they conduct their affairs with honor and integrity—they don't lie.

Preliminary social contact should be on the formal side.

"Senior Persons" (Top or bottom) are not to be interrupted when in conversation.

Experience being equal, Tops lead the conversation.

Junior Tops defer to Senior Tops and Senior bottoms in social situations.

Junior bottoms defer to all others in the Scene but not to outsiders.

When walking together, bottoms walk half-a-step behind and to the left of Tops with whom they are involved or playing.

It is up to the Top or the experienced bottom to extend a hand to invite a handshake. (All touching is highly restricted during initial contact between strangers.)

NEVER over-indulge in drugs or alcohol in public, or otherwise attract scornful attention to one's self—to do so brings dishonor on the men in the Scene,

Tops should always have the first two opportunities to make verbal or physical contact,

The more submissive one is, the less direct eye contact one makes—glance frequently at or stare at His boots only when cruising; less so in non-sexual conversation.

The more dominant one is, the more direct the eye contact is unless there is no erotic interest (cruising only).

Men in the Scene do not discuss (or write about!) the Scene with outsiders.

All men in the Scene must be able to spot outsiders with the "right stuff" and be ready to facilitate them into the Scene after they indicate sincere interest.

None of these rules are taught or explained to anyone except by innuendo, inference, or example.

Erotic technical information is only shared among peers.

Maintain formal and non-committal relationships with those outside the scene; avoid contact with feminine men. Women are not allowed although Senior People may occasionally have intellectual or brief social relationships with the occasional qualified kinky woman, but only in private.

Very few men maintained full compliance with all these rules all the time, and some flatly refused to follow rules they personally objected to. But, to be included, one was expected to follow at least most of these rules most of the time. Also, confusingly, there was some variation in some of the rules depending on what city you happened to be in at the time. The list above is not complete although it conveys the sense of the style.

Understandably, a certain stiffness surrounded the men who followed these rules, just as a certain stiffness surrounded the military men of the era. Those who sought inclusion had the challenge of finding a relaxed and easygoing way to follow the rules. However, this required considerable social skill and many kinky people lacking those skills (or patience) simply gave up and accepted a frustrated role on the fringe.

As time passed, there were more and more guys in their twenties whose early sexual development had not been influenced strongly by contact with the military. Therefore, they lacked the early raw material with which to fetishize the military features of the "Old Guard" leather/SM scene. Still, they needed information and experiences to help shape the urges of insistent kinky longings.

These people were essentially without resources until the establishment of kinky organizations brought about new educational opportunities that were not bound by "Old Guard" rules. Consequently, there is a lot more support now for new people coming into the leather/SM scene who have other ideas (non-military) about what is hot. Long hair, rockers with wild designs on their jackets, road racing bikers with brightly colored leathers, leather faeries, skinheads, women and others now are found on turf that was once dominated by the "Old Guard" system.

So, "Old Guard" should perhaps be thought of as "Early Guard" or perhaps "First Guard" because that style makes sense given the erotic influences that shaped the inner lives of the men who were coming of age sexually at that time. The Old Guard made some real contributions and made some real mistakes, and still does both.

It is more useful to understand than to criticize. And, perhaps most importantly, what the Old Guard did for the development and expansion of kinky life and butch gay male sexuality can best be appreciated against the backdrop of what had existed earlier—not much of anything!

But remember this, as long as we have a military, and a paramilitary police system, and as long as that military has traditions of initiation, ritual, inclusion/exclusion, honor and service, there will always be an "Old Guard". Its size and influence in the leather/SM scene will probably always be proportional to the role played by the military and other paramilitary organizations in society—larger following wartime and smaller during peace.

I thought maybe you'd like to know.

ROUGH STUFF III

Tongue Lashing Can Really Hurt by Joseph W. Bean

One of four "Rough Stuff" columns in this special 150th issue of Drummer.

In the last issue of Drummer, Race Bannon opened the subject of what dangers there may be in verbal scenes. It was his intention, and ours, that his piece on humiliation should be only the beginning of exploring the idea of potentially dangerous words. Here is my piece on the subject, written nearly three years ago and published in a number of gay papers across the country. Now it's your turn. Write to Joseph W. Bean, Drummer, PO Box 410390, San Francisco, CA 94141-0390 with your thoughts and feelings about the dangers and pleasures of word play in SM.

Verbal abuse (VA, V/A) sounds like the safest possible leathersex experience. No condoms or dental dams required; no ropes or restraints to become overly tight; nobody hitting any body. After all, as everyone knows, "whips and chains may break my skin, but words will never hurt me." Everyone says something like that, but don't you believe it.

Skin's only skin. Stripe it with blazing red welts tonight, and tomorrow (or one day soon) the welts are gone. Their glow may remain in memory, just warm enough to inspire desire, but welts and bruises and even breaks in the skin heal pretty quickly, given anything like proper care. The surface striped by an out-of-control tongue lashing, on the other hand, doesn't always smooth out and recover so easily.

Of course, I am definitely not saying don't do verbal scenes. That's not my place, and not my style. When it comes to any sex act at all, especially kinky ones, you have to make your own informed choices. With that in mind, there are some things I think you need to know before you start experimenting—the information necessary for informed choice.

First, realize that real sex—sex that engages your whole ecstasy-inclined self, regardless of the sex act—is never safe in any absolute way. To be open to deeply satisfying, joyful sex, including any sort of SM, you have to be vulnerable, not necessarily to germs, but very essentially vulnerable to your partner, soul to soul. This means verbal trips are potential dynamite if you're really there for them, really open to the power exchange they express. If you open up, consciously or

"automatically," to the tongue lashing your partner is giving you, the words don't hang in the air. They get to you, one way or another. They have meaning, of one sort or another.

Second, recognize your own reasons and reasoning when you're looking for a verbal abuse scene. Top or bottom, you have your reasons. Looking at them does not mean a lot of intense introspection and reflection. That way lies madness, and a lot of bullshit too. Still, look for your own reasoning. Believe your own first impression. It will do for now. Then ask yourself, "Is this about joy, health, fulfillment, and possible ecstasy?" If so, go for it. If not, you may need some form of therapy other than SM play.

Do you want to be called a "filthy cocksucker" because you truly believe that sucking cock makes you (and all gay men?) filthy? If so, will the VA scene feed your self-hatred, or will it help you work through it and deal with it. Your first answer will do. Go with it.

Do you want to be berated because the VA language connects with your early sexual history or with some especially hot porn you treasure in memory? If so, the verbal scene may be nothing more than a way of turning up the sexual heat. Or, it may be a way of beating yourself up for harboring such memories or for no longer being as innocent as you once were. Which is it? Is it okay?

Don't go Freudian. Don't analyze yourself into a corner. Just realize that abusive language can be more scarring than whips and chains. Understand that whether words maim or heal has everything to do with why you enjoy or want them in the first place.

If you decide to experiment with VA, check in with yourself after the scene. Are you recalling the slurs and humiliation as hot, sexy action, or does the memory lead you to doubting your self worth? Is it a little of each? Even if you decide there does appear to be a dangerous element in VA for you, it is possible to save the sexy side of the action without continuing to put yourself at risk of real damage.

My third and final separate point: Safety may be as simple as always doing the VA scene as a part of a larger dramatic scene, one in which you play the part of the creep or weakling or other worthless slime whose degradation turns you on. Similarly, you may find that there really are things in the realm of leathersex that you don't do well or handle well. Arrange to have your Top "degrade" you in reference to these acts, keeping you informed within or outside the scene of your actual progress, until such time as the degradation is no longer possible. Get creative. There's always a way to have it all in SM.

The one thing you can't let yourself do is lie to yourself. If you suspect that your reasons for seeking verbal abuse are unhealthy, work that out first. Get all the pain you want, but don't let yourself be harmed.

In a consensual SM scene, VA like any kind of sex play, has to be within your limits if you're a bottom. Tops, too, can be mentally or emotionally lacerated by the words they sling, so make room for your partner's limits as well. Prepare. Negotiate your verbal scene as carefully as you would a heavy pain trip involving restraint. Then, do what gets you up, what gets you off, and what leaves you high.

NOVICES ARE BLINDFOLDED

by Hoddy Allan

illustrated by Karin Conover

Novices are blindfolded the first time they play in the Dungeon hidden in the basement. That's what Cub told me when he made me strip out of my uniform in the little change room built around the foot of the steps. The party thumped against the makeshift walls behind the deep metal shelves, and I shot my pal a weird look when he told me I wouldn't be allowed to look up from the floor either.

I stripped off my undershirt and tossed it onto the pile of blues and greens lying at Cub's feet. My underpants missed, landing on the toe of his boot. Cub kicked it off and steeped over the pile of my uniform to tie a white kerchief loosely around my neck. Then he made me get down on all fours.

A hatchway slid open under one of the room's floor-to-ceiling shelving units. Cub kicked my behind, and I scampered through the hatch into some place crowded, noisy, and dark. I stayed there on my hands and knees, waiting for my Bossman to come stand beside me.

Cub calls me Wuf because of the sound I make when he's got me on my belly. He likes the way I wuf when he slides into me. Cub said I could tell this story so long as I stick to using our Dungeon Names.

I was allowed to stand up on the other side of the crawl-through. Cub told me to, over the loud music and chatter in the red-lit basement. Then he began to shout his instructions to my face when I looked up into the mirrors of his sunglasses.

Head down! I forgot I wasn't supposed to look up from the floor. I stared down at the scuffed-up toe of his Brigade-issue boot, at my bare toes, cold and tender on the hard, gritty cement, as I was told to follow close behind, keep my hands behind my back, eyes to the floor at all times. I would speak only if spoken to—if that happened at all—and I was to remember, no matter what happens, that I was among friends here in the basement Dungeon. Cub then pulled a wide collar from a belt loop of his leather pants, wrapped it and snapped it snug around my neck. He snapped on a leash, and tugged it. I shuffled behind him, naked, through the crowd of bodies in the red light. Cub could take me anywhere like that.

He had already told me much about the Freedom Houses operating always within the unmonitored suburban rings around most cities in the Protectorate. We met on assignment in one of the Internment Centres near the Great Lakes Region. Cub was sent to boost the centre's "prisoners' records system" capacity. I drove a tank crew around the Zone's perimeter.

We weren't supposed to meet. Brigade Brass frowns on friendships between Boys serving in different branches of the service. Hell, I go blank when Cub goes on about this database system or that neighborhood surveillance network. I drive tanks.

Cub and I fuck.

We fuck so good together I wrangled a transfer from my hometown base to come out here soon after our hitches at the centre were up.

Two days later, I'm following behind my Bossman through a crowded, unregistered house party, naked, collared, and leashed. He held the leash in his gloved hand the way I would picture him in my hard-on dreams late at night, and I thought to myself that this wasn't really happening. Hell, I was soft as a cotton ball, it couldn't be happening.

Novices are blindfolded the first time they play in the Dungeon because, initially, you were not allowed to see the face of the Top who initiated you into the House. That's changed since I've been a member, but it was thought that a novice could easily betray the House by an inopportune remark made in the wrong place and time, or by publicly associating with House members across the social lines cut for us by the world outside the Dungeon.

We're pretty lax on that part of the initiation these days. And besides, I figured out long ago who it was who threw me into the stockade that night and slapped my face. I've played with him several times since. I won't tell, either.

But now that I'm on the other side of it, as a member of the SM Freedom, House of the Hare, watching a novice come in, head down, white kerchief around the neck, I understand that they're blindfolded for our benefit.

Not blindfolded—just requiring them to look down at the floor is only for the convenience of the sponsoring member who otherwise would have a hell of a time negotiating them through each section of the Dungeon. It was for us, so we could take a good look, part last-minute screening, a little bit cruising. I notice how all our attention seems to turn when a novice is brought in to one of our parties. Everyone from the men's and mixed sections and even the women's section around the corner stops what they're doing. It's just for a second, a heartbeat, then it's back to business.

I was self-conscious enough, stumbling naked behind Cub as he led me through a party I could see only from the waist down. Had I known the amount of attention coming at me from the gatherings of leather-legged, naked, tight-skirted, barefoot, and heavily-booted people around me, I don't think I would have made that walk around the sections of the Dungeon with Cub. I kept staring at the small of his bare back, at the heels of his boots. I tried to take in as much of

.....

It couldn't be happening, I cotton ball.

around my face and was tied

the sights around me as I could, and I couldn't quite believe it when I watched Cub's gloved hand pass my leash to another gloved hand. The white kerchief flew up around my face and was tied tightly over my eyes. A harder tug on my leash. I stumbled blindly forward. I thought, Hell, now I'm as hard as a rock.

After that, I was nothing more than a blindfolded head, two hands, legs, and a throbbing hard-on sticking through holes in a piece of wood. The stockade clanked and squeaked in my ear when I squirmed and hollered. Cub said it would be safe to make noise in the Dungeon. I whimpered, roared, and cried like a baby when I got my bare feet whipped, my face slapped back and forth. I was rock hard and blubbering by the time the soft, leather-gloved hands that had abused me began milking me furiously past the point of no return. I wasn't scared, just in a state of awesome wonder.

I had only known Cub's fierce love-making when he worked me over those nights at the Internment Centre's Brigade barracks compound. He'd tie me up helpless, and gag me for our safety in the hiding place we could find to play in. Then he'd stand over me, grinning as he put on the soft, black leather gloves he always kept safely hidden in the back pocket of his uniform. He was the only one I knew who could work me over hard, turn me into a blubbery mess exploding in his hands. He said he always wanted to take me to a place where we could make all the noise we wanted.

I cried out for Cub, then I remembered that I was among friends down in the Dungeon. And while I exploded into a million pieces in the hands of a gloved stranger—who later became a friend—it occurred to me that this was where Cub learned to use his hands. The man, still holding me gently as I came back together, piece by piece, could have been Cub's teacher.

Novices are blindfolded for what they will see after the initiation. For what you see once the kerchief is pulled off your face and you're allowed to look up at the faces of the men and women around you. The Top who initiated me got lost in the crowd. Booter, one of the founding members of the House, got down on his haunches before me and asked if I would like to be released from the stockade. I asked to see Cub, and he said Cub was busy.

When you are finally allowed to look up from the floor, to look at the faces of the men and women hidden in the safety of the Dungeon in the basement, you've made the transition between worlds. The people milling about the basement were the same people I met upstairs in the living room earlier in the evening: Adult civilians dressed in regulation attire—shirts and ties for men, skirts and dresses for women—and those of us in the Youth Brigades in our blue and green uniforms. Now, in the Dungeon, they wore black leather clothing, old, worn and creased from the years of wear since such things were last made in the Protectorate. They talked loudly to one another, laughed at each other's jokes, and they made the fiercest love.

The quiet, socially safe world where blue and green flags fly everywhere, where families hold Positive Prayer meetings in their back yards in good weather ends at the crawl-through hatchway we all have to use to get in and out of the Dungeon. For a novice, the first trip between worlds takes a little bit longer.

I had my first real beer that night, something smuggled into the Protectorate from the Independent States of Australia.

And I found out where Cub had been all the time. A couple of friends of his had my Bossman roped up in a web in a corner of the Dungeon's main section. Clothespins covered his chest, and his friends were positioning a line of them along the length of his cock which was jutting out from the fly of his leather pants. The scratched mirror lenses of his sunglasses glinted at me from the work table beside him, and I blushed at Booter who stood next to me watching the scene.

Then I smiled to myself, and shook my head. I was seeing my future.

Cub could take me anywhere.

I'd follow.

Cruising the High Seas

The RSVP Cruises are not Leather events, but are still more proof that we are everywhere. Nine of us had booked onto the March cruise from San Diego down the Mexican coast and back. On the first night, after dinner, several of us were about in our leather vests, and a surprising number of guys came up and said that they hadn't even thought about bringing leather with them since this was not a leather event. Now they were wishing they had!

RSVP's philosophy is to bring gay men, and women, together to have a good time. The emphasis is on the "together." They do not like to schedule special drag events, or cowboy events, or leather events, or anything else that divides the group on the cruise into segments. However, they also encourage everyone to participate in all events in the manner they enjoy, be it drag, cowboy gear, leather, or whatever.

The cruise itself was great! We spent most of our week on the water with only relatively short time in the three Mexican ports. I had taken lots of books, and even my laptop copmputer, planning on a lot of time to get reading and work done. That didn't happen. Things were going on constantly and they were all things I wanted to participate in. Danny Williams, the Bay Area's well known leather comic, kept everyone entertained when we were not listening to Luise Duarte, Jane Olivor, Sam Harris, Viola Wills, or one of the three cabaret entertainers who seemed to be constantly playing and singing. We even entered the costume contest as the Cowrus Line, which included five cows (in

Living in Leather

The National Leather Association's sixth annual Living In Leather Conference is scheduled for October 11, 12 and 13 in Chicago. This year over 1000 Leather/SM/Kinky men and women of all orientations are expected to gather for this three day celebration of our lifestyle. Plans include at least 50 panel discussions, workshops and demonstrations on subjects ranging from Finding a Partner to running a Leather Cottage Industry, from Legislative lobbying to techniques of whipping, from living in an ongoing Leather/SM/ Kinky relationship to a Dungeon Beautiful slide/video show. The Leather market will feature vendors from all over the country and the Art Show will feature drawings, paintings, photography and other media from many of North Americas hottest artists. Other events will include a welcoming ceremony, an awards reception, and the 1991 Mr. and Ms National Leather Association Contest. All of these events are included in the registration fee. In addition the Chicago Hellfire Club black leather with white leather patches) a farmer, (with whip and 7-cell cattleprod) and a hunky milkboy. (See photo at left.)

While not a leather event, per se, leather and leather men were much in evidence. Towards the end of the cruise I asked Danny to announce a special photo session to do a group picture of leather/uniform/kinky men who would like to be in Drummer. In spite of the fact that it had to be squeezed between the final bingo game, with several thousands of dollars in prizes that everyone wanted to win, and the final formal dinner for which every one had to rush off to dress, 31 men changed into uniforms, leather, or whatever seemed appropriate to get their photo taken for Drummer. (Photo below left.)

The ship's crew seemed to enjoy all aspects of the group, including watching me apply several dozen clothespins to a man who wanted to wear them to the disco. The largely straight crew all said they enjoy the RSVP cruises much more than the reguar straight groups because we are so much more fun! The general attitude seemed to be "as long as we didn't scare the horses..." I did point out to the RSVP management that many aspects of leather play needed more room than the typical shipboard staterooms could provide and urged them to make the gym available for specified hours on future cruises. They said they would take this under consideration. I hope they do before the Feb 23-March 1, 1992 Deep Caribbean Cruise. Many of us have already booked for this. Join us for the Deep Caribbean Cruise or, whenever you go, take a bit of leather or at least a Drummer T-shirt or one from a well known leather bar. Keep that leather closet door wide open!

is organizing a series of play parties for each night of the conference.

Registration is $95 for members and $115 for non-members until Sept. 15. After that date it is $110 for members and $135 for non-members (Membership in the national organization is $25 per year and you may join with registration.) Pre-registration for CHC's play parties will occur only in Chicago. To register for LIL VI, or for further information, Write LIL Registration, PO Box 17463, Seattle, WA 98107. The Executive House Hotel is the official hotel for LIL VI and is the site of most of the activities. Special rates are available for those attending LIL but space is limited. Book early. The Executive House is at 71 East Wacker Drive, Chicago IL 60601. Phone 800/621-4005 or Fax 312/346-1721.

LEATHERMEN MEET

By placing an ad in this section, a bar or other business is telling you that they welcome Leathermen.

By accepting their ad, Drummer is telling you that the bar has been recommended by a Leather/SM club or a recognized individual in the community as a good place to meet and socialize with other Leathermen. In larger cities, these will be THE leather bars; in other areas, they will be the more general purpose bars where Leathermen do go to socialize.

Playing 20 Questions With BOY JOHN

John Siracusa talks to Joseph W. Bean. Photos by Jim Wigler

Boy.

It's a strange word. Everything we can say about the word boy is arguable, debatable, uncertain: its origin is lost in the earliest mists of European languages, the twists and turns of etymology by which it comes down to modern English are explained in half a dozen mutually exclusive ways, even its most basic meaning (a male from birth to puberty) is charged with both endearing and demeaning emotional connotations. And, most important to Drummer readers in the 1990s, this single syllable can represent an entire way of life.

A boy. Who is a boy? John Siracusa, Drummer boy of the Year 1990-91, says he is a boy, and he is willing to share something of what that means to him. Whether the term becomes clear in this interview or not, it certainly becomes meaningful. And, to amplify Boy John's responses to 20 Questions, comments from earlier conversations with him and from presenting the same questions to Scott Smitherum, also a self-identified boy, have been added.

What do you mean when you say you are a boy?

Being a Boy is an expression of my sexuality. It allows me to go within myself and nurture the child inside of me. I feel, due to the pressure from society to conform, that we lose track of our innocence and childlike behavior, the things that allow us to be free spirits. Being a Boy is growing up all over again as a man. (Scott: It means I can have freedom to play, a safe place, and Daddy, and a lot of love... a nurturing relationship with a lot of growth. Getting to wear silly clothes and someone else takes the blame for them. Permission to be silly sometimes.)

Does a boy have to be young?

I am 29, so I would have to say, no, a Boy can be any age: 20, 45, 65. Age should not determine the exploration of one's sexuality. Earlier, and frequently, John has been very emphatic about the fact that a person has to be a man, meaning an adult, before he can choose to be a boy, just as one has to be a strong character in order consciously to be submissive, taking on a role of seeming weakness. (Scott: A boy can be any age, which is good for older boys who like young men.)

Does a boy have to be small?

I feel people are so quick to stereotype. To place one another into roles based on physicality is to place limits on the possibilities of exploration. Today, there are many women exploring the Dad-Boy relationship. In doing so, they are not allowing physical restrictions to determine what is possible for them.

Does a boy have to be childlike?

For me, yes. Childlike means innocent, and in a state of innocence, I am freed from my inhibitions. That leaves me free to expand my boy "headspace." (SS: No. The boy should have the ability to be childlike when appropriate, but he also has to be able to function as a normal, human, male adult.) There is no conflict between John's yes and Scott's no here. If you think there is, shift gears, and try to come up to the liberating and liberated point of view these boys have about manhood, boyhood, and the possibilities offered to a guy who doesn't feel any need to live up to the world's idea of "grown up."

Can a boy be a boy when he is alone, not in a relationship?

Being a boy is a part of me whether I am in a relationship or not. It is not something that I can just turn on or off. (SS: Part of being a boy is giving up decisions and, when you're not in a relationship, you can't do that.) Again, a superficial difference in the answers of two boys. John certainly does turn off the expression of his boy-nature when necessary. When landlords, employers, and others deal with him, they are dealing with a mature, level-headed man who thinks in clear, mature terms. And, on the other hand, Scott certainly was able to present himself as a boy before his present relationship began, even wearing boy-toy clothes and taking the "blame" for them himself.

Can a guy become a boy because it's what the fellow he loves wants?

If the relationship provides a safe environment, yes. Given the freedom to explore different roles, someone could become a Boy, providing that it is a healthy development in the growth of that individual. (SS: He has to truly want to. Some guys who are called boys in relationship to men who are called Dads, will never be boys. You have to want to do it. If you want to do it, it adds to your life. If you're just doing it to please someone else, it may just cover up something else in yourself, maybe something you need.)

Do you think that a Daddy-boy relationship is necessarily an SM relationship?

Most people I know who are in Dad-Boy relationships enjoy the exploration of some level of SM, but I feel that it does not necessarily have to be that way. A Dad-Boy relationship can be a healthy paternal expression for the Dad, and a chance for the Boy to receive the love and guidance of a man he respects and trusts, without SM. (SS: No, Dads and boys don't have to be into SM at all. What is needed is a strong figure and someone who wants to be a stronger figure.)

The relationship aside, does a boy have to be into SM?

No. (SS: No.) And yet, the power exchange between a Dad and his boy, the essential sense of safety, sanity, and consensuality, is something supported in the SM community. So, not surprisingly, the author is aware of several couples who define themselves as members of the SM community although their only SM is the power dynamic of their Dad-boy relationship.

Is a boy necessarily a bottom?

No. A Boy can be a Top. I feel that a relationship is defined by the two individuals in that relationship. My Top is a Bottom. In our relationship, we have defined ourselves to best fit our own personal growth. We do not allow others to define our sexual roles by their standards. (SS: No. It's all in how the couple defines it. They are the ones having the contract or agreement.)

How is a boy different from a slave? How is a boy different, in fact, from any other kind of submissive partner in a leather relationship?

The difference between a boy and a slave is in the degree of submission. A slave is an extension of his Master's will. Boys are submissive more by virtue of an exploration of a childlike headspace. (SS: Master/slave relationships can exist without love or romanticism, whereas Dad-boy relationships can't. Other than that, a Dad-boy relationship can take you right up to the edge of the Master-slave relationship.)

What does a man need in order to be a boy? What are the pre-requisites?

I can only speak from my own personal experience: I had to get honest with myself, to come out of the closet, so to speak, to find within the confidence in my basic sexual and leather orientation. Having confidence in myself, going into a an SM relationship as a submissive enabled me to not lose track of who I am. So, I am able to participate in, and not just exist in, my relationship. (SS: At least partially joking, no? Honesty. A sense of fun. A need for a strong "father figure," and a desire to learn from and be like "said strong person"... and a good, hot butt.)

Is being a boy a choice you make for yourself, or is it a discovery you make about yourself?

For me, it was a discovery of a desire to be submissive, then a choice of how to explore that desire. With proper training in a safe environment, yes a person can become a Boy if the exploration of a Boy headspace is truly what that person wants. I do not feel that someone would be giving 100% of himself if he took the role of a Boy in a relationship and it was not what he wanted. For me, I must give 100% of myself, and know that I am doing that, and being the best I can be. (SS: It's always possible to be surprised, to surprise yourself. You know: Oh, I'd better move my keys now!)

What kind of satisfaction can you get from being a boy, since a boy seems always to be serving someone else's needs?

It is in the exchange and sharing of interest and desires that I receive my fulfillment as a Boy. Therefore, what appears to be serving others is, in fact, self-serving too, meeting the needs of my headspace. (SS: You can get the joy of a job well-done. The love of a good Daddy. And it really works out pretty well if you have the right Daddy, like if you don't particularly want to do the fucking—don't want to stick your dick in someone else—you can have a Daddy, and he'll do that.)

What can be said of boys and collars? Boys and locks? Boys and other kinds of clothing along those lines?

I have very strong feelings on this. The collar and lock represent to me the commitment of respect and trust between my Top and myself. The collar is the property of the Top. When he chooses to place it around my neck, that is when I give complete and total submission to him. I have placed myself at his command, and I know that at no time will I be in danger, no matter how heavy the scene may get or how much the fear may take over. At the same time, because I wear my Top's collar in public does not mean that I become property of the place in which I am. I do not feel that by wearing a collar a Boy is giving permission for just anyone to call him/her "Boy." There are people I will call Sir or Ma'am because of the mutual respect between that person and myself. (SS: Boys should wear whatever their Daddy tells them to, though they are not precluded from trying their own ideas to seduce Daddy. But they should never wear anybody else's collars or locks, without Daddy's permission.) Locks have been known to bring out very powerful positive and negative emotional responses in both John and Scott. It would seem that the lock, far more than the collar, represents the extreme edge of a boy's role, where it touches and mingles with the role of a slave.

What encouragement can you give to a boy who is worried that by being a boy he may be damaging his manhood?

Be true to yourself. Follow your desires. Allow yourself the freedom to explore those desires. Be honest about who and what you are. As my friend and predecessor (Drummerboy of the year 1989-90) Dieter Edwards says, "It takes a man to be a Boy!" (SS: If your happy being a boy, and you're a man, your manhood is assured. If you're covering up some part of yourself to be a boy, you may be in trouble. Manhood means you're a functioning, human male, and you need to be that to be a boy.)

How did you come out as a boy?

I came out in leather in October of '89. I have been clean and sober for the last three years. When I came out, I was fortunate enough to be exposed to a group of clean and sober leather/SM men and women who provided for me a safe, sane, and consensual place to explore myself. Once I got honest enough with myself and others, the rest started to fall into place. There was no more pretending to be something I'm not. My first real bottoming was done to a woman. My trust issues would not have allowed me, at the time, to bottom to a man. I still maintain that Mom-Boy relationship today. She has given me another side of my sexuality, one I was afraid to explore. This has allowed me to experience and to share with my Mom and my (male) Top a level of intimacy which, as gay men and a lesbian, would not normally be part of our lives. (SS: My search was always for a "mentor" relationship. My tendency was always to be sort of passive. So, it just developed naturally. It was something to fall into more than it was a coming out.)

Are you always in boy mode?

Being a Boy is part of me. It is my Boy headspace that I am not always in. To be in that headspace at all times would not be possible for the functioning of everyday life. I also feel that it would not be healthy for me to be in Boy headspace all the time for the growth of my self as a man. (SS: No.)

Are you always in boy mode in relation to your lover?

No. There are some things that we need to meet on an equal basis in order to achieve the best possible outcome for us both. I feel that for my Top to not be able to communicate with me on a man-to-man level is not allowing us to develop as lovers. Also sometimes we have to be there for each other as lovers, equals, not just Top/Bottom, Dad/Boy. I know when I am required to be in Boy headspace. A look from him, and I will know that it means BOY! (SS: No. There have been times when you didn't need me in boy mode, but it's dependent on your needs.) Yes, Scott is my boy—JWB

What can a man expect from a relationship with a boy like yourself that is different from what he can expect in other relationships?

Each person has those qualities that make him/her an individual. It is those qualities that make up a relationship. The qualities that are essential to me are honesty, trust, communication, and a clear sense of self. The other important thing in a relationship for me is the freedom for both people to explore and develop their spiritual selves. (SS: Undying loyalty. Woof, woof!)

The traditional demeanor of a boy is pretty "retiring," pretty submissive in public. How has that worked for you this year as an active titleholder in the leather community?

I have found that since I won the title of Drummer Boy, My headspace and my behavior in public have been different. They had to change due to the fact that if I want people to take me seriously, I can not go into my usual Boy headspace. That is, I feel that my body language must be open, allowing people—especially Boys to be able to come up to me and talk. I feel a responsibility to make myself available as a representative of "Boy" to the community and a representative of the community to others. As a titleholder, I feel I have to be ready to share any information and experience I have. I have not been into SM for very long, but have been fortunate enough to be taught by men and women I feel are some of the best in this community. And what I have been given, this knowledge, is meant to be passed on, to keep replenishing the blood supply so to speak.

The lifestyle of a Boy is very important to me, and it is exactly that, a lifestyle, not a role that I play some days and not others.

Boyhood is obviously a path that works, that gives access to happiness, the possibility of growth, and a framework for development for John (and Scott). The word—for all its mixed up history and strange potential connotations in the "outside" world—will represent a lifestyle that a man can be proud of as long as it is the banner under which men like Dieter Edwards, Scott Smitherum and John Siracusa choose to live.

Boy. What a word!

The notes here are the result of selecting and combining information from both Webster's New International Dictionary, Unabridged and the Oxford English Dictionary.

Origins: Boy may come from the Frisian boi, meaning boy, and be related to the Old English masculine proper names Boia and Bofa as well as the Old High German name Buobo, all of which may come from pre-historic West Germanic words derived by baby-talk with meanings related to the words for brother. That's all Webster's, and the OED adds that boi in East Frisian meant "a young gentleman," and that the word is "considered by many" to be identical with Dutch (and other) words meaning knave. And the OED reports that bo-y may be a diminutive form of West Germanic bo which is a short form of bobo.

Meanings: a male child from birth to puberty; a son, male offspring; a male person; a sweetheart, young social partner; a favorite; a student, pupil; a native of a region; a member of a group; one connected to a profession, doctrine, faction, or specialty; a rascal, knave; a male servant; a slave; a worker in a service field; a male member of a race considered inferior; used in affection or admiration or familiarity to mean a man, fellow; applied playfully, affectionately, or slightly to mean one treated as a youngman; and, in early citations, it is indistinguishable from bote, an executioner; also, as derived from boie, a collar for the neck, a gyve, fetter [plural boyis, fetters]

ROUGH STUFF IV

Self Doubts of a Slave

by Andrew Irish

i had no concept of what to expect when, the day before it was to take place, i was directed to prepare to enter the slave contest (at Inferno XIX). Neither did He, to my knowledge. i knew such a contest had been conducted at prior Infernos, and had heard that they could be rough on entrants.

He helped me. We went over whatever we thought i might encounter. We spent most of our time and energy on attitude and demeanor. They were part of the scoring criteria. Could we work in some creativity and humor while maintaining proper slave behavior? It was acknowledged within the rules that there is no universal standard for "proper slave behavior." We settled on some points of conduct and carriage, and the rest was my job.

The Contest

The contest began, and i felt a bit self-conscious, and somewhat anxious. What will be expected of us? Forget that! What will be expected of me? i was the fourth contestant to be called into service, and whatever awareness of the other contestants' progress i had held up to the moment was quickly replaced with the realization that i was in competition with only myself. Since i have always been my own harshest critic, i wondered if i would succeed at all.

Only a moment or two of my attention could be spent on such thoughts (maybe between judges), because i found it necessary to be very present to the judges and their respective assigned tasks. Focus and quick thinking were required. No comic relief there! Despite the isolation from the other contestants i experienced, when my course was finished i felt a distinct closeness to those who had preceded me. Though our testing had been different, we had each endured and completed the tests we were assigned. As those after me completed their own trials, each was welcomed back to the waiting area with some personalized and very much needed expression of welcome and congratulations.

Between the end of the competition and the announcement of results a day or so later, we compared perceptions and wished each other well. A bond had been forged. i, for one, had no conception of how i or anyone else had placed in the final scoring.

The results were announced: Maybe third place, but it was not me. Hmm... Could i hope for second place? Someone else. i was on edge, but not really optimistic. (Do the Miss America contestants go through this?) First Prize Slave was announced, and i think i hesitated a moment in disbelief, or distrust. But He helped me get up, and i realized it was me. Surprise and pleasure began to register. (i have won very few things in my life. Mostly i was a non-competitor. Self-doubt, you know.) i had lived up to the standard. He was proud of me, and i was proud of me, too. i felt great, and very satisfied.

i forgot about Miss America.

After the whole thing was over, i felt self-conscious again, and told a few friends that i felt a little like i thought Wilbur might have felt in "Charlotte's Web"—a first prize pig at a country fair!

It was fun. A real family affair.

... just what is a slave?

What is slavery in my life and relationship? It is at once part of it, and all of it. i have realized that part of slavery is slavery to oneself—to one's wishes, desires, fantasies, needs. i do not see slavery as mere limitation, but as a manner of expression and interaction in which some grow and develop more fully than in other ways of living. Myself, for one. Slaves are not less than, but different from their Masters, endowed with complementary skills and the capacity to make equally valuable contributions to the success of the relationship. It is what each of us makes it. Servitude and mastery are each a personality characteristic, measured on separate and parallel continua, and neither can be fully manifested without its counterpart. Without their mutual presence and expression, each remains only potential.

Service manifests itself in my professional career as well. i have been a nurse for 14 years.

Yes, i have a Master. In His own words, He is the Master of my heart, not my body. He can and does have expectations, but these are not limitations so much as guidelines. He wants me to be the best i can be, for i reflect on Him, but He recognizes our individuality. He is my Master. But our relationship does not manifest solely in rigid role performance. Love truly is a many splintered (sic) thing. He is also my lover, my friend, and my Pop. He takes good care of me, and i have the same responsibility toward Him.

RUTH MARKS

An interview by Clive Platman, Mr. Drummer 1990-91

Unashamedly political—and in this day and age who can afford not to be—Ruth sees the National Leather Association as a perfect platform from which to work for the kinds of increased awareness and growth she knows are needed in our community.

Relaxing after dinner, while demolishing a bottle of Martinelli's, Ruth and I talked about politics and "doing the dirty"... two enjoyable subjects to us both.

SO, WHO IS RUTH MARKS? A burst of laughter, then reflection. Ruth Marks is a Leather Dyke, who prior to coming into the SM community was a rather conservative lesbian with a hunger in her cunt.

I look: Sitting across the table from me is a blond fem dyke, with a piercing laugh, dangerous eyes, and—as I have discovered—a formidable intellect. I have watched and enjoyed, when this lady has been mistaken for the classic "Blond Bimbo." My advice: The best course of action is to take cover and watch the fireworks fly.

Ruth Marks is a Leather Dyke of four years experience: top, bottom, switch. She is politically and socially aware and involved. And, she is the owned property of two respected lesbians in the Women's community.

Ruth is the current holder of the Ms National Leather Association title.

I met Ruth last year at the Fresno Leatherfest, where she was selling her whips—that is, whips she makes in both flashy and traditional leathers. Her brassy voice and the highly recognizable Marks laugh, added unexpected dimensions to the image of a big-busted Dyke with a genuine zest for living, making her an eminently approachable lady.

WHO IS RUTH MARKS NOW? Someone who has found a way to fill that hunger WHAT FEEDS THE HUNGER? I am a fetishist. Shoes, tight waisted items, corsets, velvet erotic textures. The erotic as a part of sadomasochism. I enjoy breath control and bondage. WHAT IS YOUR HEADSPACE WITHIN SM? It varies. I am owned by two sadists, lovers. As a masochist I am wanted by my sadists. I fulfill a need in them, their need to hurt. AND YOU, WHAT DO YOU GAIN? Strength. I grew up frightened. I was an abused child. I was afraid to go out, afraid to stay in. Fear. My masochism gives me the knowledge that I can face anything. I can deal with anything. It has given me a reality check that I am strong.

WHAT PUSHES YOUR BUTTONS IN A SCENE? Fear, terror, pride. These are my motivations. When I am preparing to play with my owners I get crazy. I can't eat. I throw up. I shake and sweat... real fear. We play for real. If there is no fear, I can't get off. When we start playing, I'll say 'I was only joking. I'm not really a masochist. I don't really want to...' so we just get through that. DO YOU PLAY "HEAVY"? Relative term. Some of the heaviest scenes I have been involved in have been totally non-physical, 'Emotional/Psychological Vivisection.' Yes, I do play heavy. You can't have fear without it. Once as a child I fell and cut my head... I was afraid... the blood.... All I can recall clearly was wanting to reach in to my underwear. I was excited.

DO YOU PLAY CONSENSUALLY? Yes. I consent to being a part of this scene. What more consent is needed? I choose to place myself in this position so that makes it consensual.

WHERE DO YOU DRAW THE LINE? For what? GIVING OF YOURSELF IN SM? Sadomasochism is a continuum. It changes and grows as we do. Boundaries are for day to day survival, money, eating, sleeping. These are limits. With my owners there are no boundaries. There is a little girl that I have started to explore in me, but she does not play SM games. She is very new.

DO YOU ENJOY TOPPING? Yes! My masochism is for my owners. I WATCHED A SCENE OF YOURS AT LIL V (LIVING IN LEATHER, 1990), A BLOOD LETTING SCENE. FOR ME IT WAS A VERY HEAVY SCENE, WHAT ARE YOUR LIMITS AS A TOP? The reaction of the bottom. I like to play with fear and control. I enjoy having a bottom control her/himself through fear of what may happen if they do not. I like to smell it, and taste it. I read my bottom's reactions and work on those.

ARE YOUR OWNERS PROUD OF YOU? Yes. If I didn't know that I wouldn't be a good slave. I am not a house slave, I am their Masochist.

What makes it work is honesty. We are not lovers, if we were it would not have lasted. HOW DO YOU FEEL ABOUT ONE-ON-ONE RELATIONSHIPS? They do not work for me. Bottom and top head spaces are two different personas, each with different needs. It takes different people to fulfill those needs. It would be a nice fantasy to have all that wrapped up in one nice little package, but I do not think that will occur.

DO YOU PLAY WITH MEN? Very few. I have bottomed to a man I watched work and was really impressed by his inventiveness. He works mostly in bondage. I have him listed in my phone file as the "Bondage Wonder Top."

HOW WAS THIS DIFFERENT FROM YOUR OWNERS? We are in a long term relationship, with the commitment that comes with time. Bottoming to this man was more an experiment. WHAT ABOUT TOPPING MEN? There have not been many, and each has been so different. Bi and straight men seem to be more open to giving up their stuff (bottom head space). Your boy [John] was different. He got me hot. I want more of that! WHAT DIFFERENCE DO YOU FIND PLAYING WITH MEN AND WOMEN? This is hard. I have played with so few men. This is where gender identification comes in. Playing with a butch dyke is like playing with a straight man, where as playing with a fem dyke is like playing with a little girl, it is when I am at my most lesbian. With gay men the feeling is the same as with straight men.

DO YOU PLAY IN FANTASY OR IN REALITY? Both. As I said I play with real fear, for me no bottoming can occur without it. Real fear, real pain. If I am playing with a top and she/he stops to ask me if I am OK, it's as if they have taken the gift I have given them and dropped it. That gift is myself. I want a top to forge ahead and take me with them, that is how I top.

LET'S TALK POLITICS. TELL ME ABOUT YOUR NLA TITLE? "The NLA title holders are the ambassadors of that organization, representatives on a national level. We are dedicated to upholding the Statement of Purpose of the NLA."

HOW DO YOU APPROACH THE TITLE? As a job. I think every title is a job, but the NLA's more than any other. A job with three parts, 1) Fundraising, 2) Education, and 3) Raising political consciousness. I hold workshops on sadomasochism, have been involved in fundraising for the community, and have spoken repeatedly to raise the awareness of our plight as a sexual minority. Raising the political awareness of the Leather, SM, Fetish community.

WHAT WOULD YOU LIKE TO SAY TO DRUMMER READERS? That I feel it is important that we as a community can find our common grounds of communication. I do not however believe that Dykes and Gays need to relate on a sexual/SM level at the expense of our individual identity.

WHAT DO YOU FEEL IS THE MOST IMPORTANT THING THAT YOU HAVE ACHIEVED THUS FAR WITH YOUR TITLE? Travelling and speaking with many groups around the country. The biggest coup has been the ground work for the establishment of a Legal Relief Fund, via the NLA, for people who have been persecuted, or incarcerated for their sexual choices.

WHAT EFFECT HAS THE TITLE HAD ON YOUR LIFE? (A big sigh) I'm tired more, if that's possible. It's a major time commitment. I have been moved by people who have been positively affected by my words.

HOW DO YOU HANDLE SEXUAL ASSUMPTIONS AS A TITLE HOLDER? I haven't found an tremendous amount of "star fucking" in the dyke community, what there is I usually smell and avoid. Besides, I am owned property.

WHAT DIFFERENCES HAVE YOU NOTICED ABOUT LEATHER COMMUNITIES AROUND THE COUNTRY? Some communities are more fetish oriented, others more SM. Some communities are pro-male, others pro-female. Others are having difficulty dealing with the emergence of the straight/bisexual leather communities.

DO YOU SEE A DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE DYKE AND THE LEATHER DYKE COMMUNITIES? When I was a lesbian, penetration was seen as allowing male energy into your body. The Leather community has disproved this. Thank god! Other than this, the difference is very little.

WHAT DO YOU SEE AS THE DIFFERENCES BETWEEN THE MEN'S AND WOMEN'S COMMUNITIES? Leather dykes came out to SM through educational support groups, such as Samois or the Outcasts. Overall, the men came out through fisting clubs. I believe that until recently the men's community has not been exposed to the same level of education. In San Francisco there is presently a fledgling organization for men [Mentor]. Happily however, in New York the GMSMA has been educating for years.

WHAT IS ON THE AGENDA FOR YOU NOW? July 10 to 14 is COLD (the Women's "Inferno") in Denver. July 27-28, I will be at the Russian River, for Leather Weekend. Mr. Northwest Drummer is August 2-5, and on the same weekend is the Mr. and Ms. Vancouver Leather contest. And Dustin Logan's Fantasy '91 is the 17-18 of August, in Omaha. I would like to meet as many men and women as possible at these functions. There's nothing I enjoy more than a good conversation.

We play for real. If there is no fear, I can't get off.

By this time the Martinelli's was all gone. While we might have talked about many other things, those conversations can be left for her one-on-one meetings with you and your friends all over the country. THANKS RUTH. CONGRATULATIONS ON THE WORK YOU ARE DOING WITH YOUR TITLE, AND BEST OF LUCK WITH THE WORK YOU WILL BE DOING DURING THE REST OF YOUR TERM AS MS NLA.

(WB)ARMY TO REVIEW DISMISSAL OF SOLDIER

FT. YUMA, Arizona Territory - The Army said on Friday a top-ranking official will review the dismissal of a soldier who was kicked out of the service last September for allegedly selling his rifle to an Indian.

Depending on the outcome of that review, Matt Griffith's request for reinstatement in the Army may be granted. The dismissal will be reviewed by Army Colonel William Hayes.

Griffith, a Pennsylvania native, was a combat engineer stationed in Ft. Yuma. While on duty there, his rifle turned up missing. Although he now claims it was stolen, Griffith originally confessed to selling his rifle after he was questioned by military officials in March, 1889. Griffith now says, however, that he only confessed after being brutally interrogated by the military for three days.

During the interrogation, Griffith claims, he was locked in a metal box under the hot desert sun for two days. On the third day, he was taken out and made to sit astride a wooden contraption and tied to it for several hours. He claims also that he was threatened with flogging and various other tortures, and has said that at one point he broke down and cried because he feared for his life.

After confessing, Griffith was later dismissed from active duty for misconduct. In an appeal after his dismissal, Griffith claimed that his superior officers orchestrated the entire interrogation episode because they were under pressure from military officials to cut back on the sale of weapons to Indians by soldiers stationed in the Arizona Territory—a practice that has gone on for several years.

Griffith originally appealed to have his discharge upgraded to an honorable one. Earlier this week, a Department of Defense Inspector General's report urged that his request be granted. Bolstered by that, Griffith, who has said he would like to make the Army a career, then asked that he be reinstated to active duty. Appeals for reinstatement can take up to two years, Army spokesmen said on Friday.

HOW TO PLACE YOUR AD IN DEAR SIR:

We accept ads, and changes to ads, only in writing. Sorry, we cannot do this over the phone. Submit ads on the form on the facing page or a copy of it. If you can't bear to cut up your issue of Drummer, and can't make photocopies, send us a note and we'll mail you copies of the form.

Box Numbers: $5.00 buys you a Drummer mail box for the life of your ad. Even after your ad expires, we will continue to forward replies forever—as long as we keep getting letters. (So, keep us posted if you move.)

Give us a name. We cannot forward mail to someone named "Boxholder" at a P. O. Box.

Phone Numbers: You can put your phone number in your ad for immediate response. WE WILL ONLY PUBLISH VERIFIED PHONE NUMBERS. Here's how to put your phone number in your ad:

Mail in your ad. (Don't forget to include the $2.00 phone verification charge.) About two weeks after you mail the ad to us, you call us at (415) 252-1195, during business hours (9:00 am to 5:00 pm Pacific Time, Mon.-Fri.) Be at the phone number you are placing in your ad. We will call you back to verify the number. If we have not verified your number within three months, we will publish the ad with a box number instead of a phone number.

You only need to verify a phone number once. Once it has appeared in Drummer, just attach a copy of the printed ad to your new ad if you wish to use that telephone number again. We will not publish voice-mail service numbers in personal ads. Don't forget to include your area code.

What else? Put anything you want in your ad, except references to minors, animals, prostitution, or drugs.

Expect about a 60-day delay from the time we receive your ad to when it appears in print. Remember, it takes time for people to respond, too. So, for example, if you're looking for Christmas presents, it would be smart to send us the ad 90 to 120 days before Christmas. Also remember replies by international mail may take longer than domestic mail.

HOW TO REPLY TO A DEAR SIR AD:

How to reply to a Drummer box number: Answering a Drummer box number is easy, but the few rules we have are hard and fast, so observe them or else. 1) Seal your letter in an envelope on which you have written the box number on the back flap in pencil. 2) Put your return address on the envelope if you wish the letter returned to you should there be some problem with delivery. 3) Put proper postage on the envelope: domestic postage is 29 cents for the first ounce, and 23 cents for each additional ounce. Letters going to Canada and Mexico cost 40 cents for the first ounce, 23 cents for each additional ounce. Foreign overseas postage is 50 cents for the first half-ounce, 45 cents for the second half-ounce, and 39 cents for each additional half-ounce. 4) Put the sealed letter(s) and a buck ($1) forwarding fee for each letter in another envelope, and mail it to: DESMODUS, INC., P. O. Box 410390, San Francisco, CA 94141-0390. Letters not properly prepared will be destroyed.

Desmodus will forward responses to ads in back issues. However, we cannot guarantee that old addresses will still be valid. Remember, the US Postal Service will not return undelivered mail without your return address. Keep in mind that people do move and their needs and desires do change.

AMPUTATION AND PROSTHESIS

Handsome, athletic yuppie seeks others wanting an amputation for erotic reasons. Let's take the trip together. (215) 568-5147.

If so, this gay white male, bondage slave wants to know you. I am programmed to spend my life serving you in a permanent relationship. I am an obedient submissive who requires training to your specific needs to be worthy of ownership. I am dedicated to surrendering all control to my Master who might keep his property naked, collared, shaved, loved and focused on Master's needs. ☆ If you know, or can envision what it feels like to have a slave care for you and you for him, then you are something outside the usual. You are a Master who likes to dominate, but recognizes ownership of property requires commitment, responsibility, time and you know anything good takes work. ☆ Your slave has strength of mind and body, is intelligent, capable of manual labor, household duties, personal attendant and even business management responsibility, but requires training to perform duties to your personal specification. Your slave responds to BD, CBT, TT, toys, wax, collars and shaving. ☆ Your clean shaven GWM bondage slave is 43, 5'-8", 162 lbs. with greying brown hair, hazel green eyes, an uncircumcized 7", 32 1/2" waist, 40" chest and is non-hairy. Your slave is goodlooking, drinks little, does not do drugs, is HIV negative and concerned about the health crisis. Your slave is financially secure and can devote fulltime to duties. ☆ Your slave pictures you to be a mentally stable, HIV-, sober, self-supporting, non-promiscuous, GWM between 30-48, not overly overweight, with or without hair, and above all one whom respects himself and his property. My Master should have the space, privacy, time and commitment to own and train his slave. ☆ I know my mind and this is one of the important decisions of my recent timespan and should be for you also. This will enable both to choose carefully. If you like fantasy, that is okay, but if you have any intentions of fulfilling the reality, please Sir, don't respond. Interested Masters who want to know more please respond with questions, desires, expectations and objectives for your slave and what your slave should know about his Master. Master, I know you are out there, please Sir, write. I will respond to all sincere and legitimate Masters. Box 8520

Membership has its privileges: a 12-issue subscription to Drummer and a free 10-line classified ad (as measured on the grid order form) in Drummer that runs for 12 issues. Leather Fraternity members also do not pay for a box number or pay forwarding fees when they write to Dear Sir box numbers. Members may change their ads up to three times (non-members may not). Something Different in SM Viewing

Each tape has two parts. Part One is a demonstration in which Professor Fledermaus uses a hunky bottom to demonstrate equipment and techniques. The second half of each video is a "hands on" session; a session in which the techniques discussed in the first part are put into practice.

BBA009 SENSITIZING THE SKIN $59.95
Fledermaus demonstrates the violet wand and hot wax techniques, then proceeds on to an extended hot wax scene which includes a cock casting.

BBA003 ROPE THAT WORKS $69.95
Fledermaus gives the facts on rope bondage, including a few basic ties and details on the rope body harness. Then four men engage in a lively scene that includes four different bondage positions as well as a lot of ass beating and cock & ball torture.

BBA006 WHIPS 1, BEATING ASS $59.95
Fledermaus demonstrates a wide variety of implements from fly swatters to exotic whips and explains techniques for variations from light stimulation of the skin to deep, lasting bruises. Then Master Mario demonstrates ass beating with two different bottoms.

Each video is approximately one hour in length. No refunds or exchanges except in the event of a defective tape. Please give a street address for UPS delivery.

PHYSICAL INTERROGATION TECHNIQUES

by Richard W. Krousher

"One of the most terrifying and gruesome books ever printed!"

The book that tells you what no other book will: how to torture information out of an unwilling subject. Most people will not have the stomach to read it, but those who do will learn more about torture and torment than they dreamed possible.

In step-by-step chilling detail, Physical Interrogation Techniques tells you how to evaluate a subject to determine what kinds of torture will be most effective, and then goes into grisly detail on actual methods of torture. The author covers humiliation, confinement and restraint, sensory deprivation/overload, intrusion into body orifices, abrasion, beating, burning, electricity, and much more, including a heavy-duty chapter on mutilation.

It is the best book ever written on torture and interrogation techniques. You may not "enjoy" this material, but you will never forget it!

Stock Prod

The stock prod is one of the most effective control devices made. Excellent for conditioning your animal to behave the way you want it to. There is nothing erotic about a jolt from this device, just a quick painful zap that it will want to avoid having repeated. This model takes three "C" cells and gives him jolt that is painful without knocking your animal over the way some larger units can.

Anal Pleasure & Health

SECOND EDITION

Jack Morin, Ph.D.

In these days of doubt and fear it is always a pleasure to find a book that gives positive, sound, research-based information on anal sexuality while dispelling the myths. It is commonly believed that people who regularly enjoy sensual erotic anal stimulation inevitably run a greater risk of developing medical problems. The belief is that one must choose—either anal pleasure or anal health. For many, the strength of this conviction has been intensified even further by the AIDS crisis.

In Anal Pleasure & Health, the reader will discover that there is no inherent conflict between anal pleasure and anal health. On the contrary, a person who wishes to expand his/her capacity for enjoying anal stimulation is advised to take virtually the same steps as the person who desires optimum anal health.

Dr. Morin covers such forbidden topics as anal self-exploration, locating and exercising anal and pelvic muscles, stress and tension release through anal stimulation, proper douching and lubrication techniques, physiological aspects of "fisting," confronting the taboos concerning feces, homophobia and masculine/feminine roles, oral-anal stimulation (rimming) and even suggestions on finding a sympathetic physician.

Now in its second edition, Anal Pleasure & Health contains full research data, bibliography, and an entirely new section on common medical problems of the anus and rectum, which includes a comprehensive discourse on AIDS and coping with the crisis.

ANOTHER HOT DRUMMER/ZEUS S/M VIDEO

U S S M / THREE

What do you get when you give two lucky bottoms to one of the hottest Tops in the country? You get Mr Drummer 89/90 Brian Dawson practicing his considerable skill on 90/91 Drummer Boy John Siracusa, and Australian stud boy Travis Scott. After Mr Drummer hogties, hoods, and hauls his boys to a mountain-top hide-a-way, we pick up the action as Dawson carries them down into his dungeon. In short order, awesome Dawson has the Drummer Boy stripped out of his rubber traveling gear and spreadeagled naked on his back to an inclined St Andrews Cross. Watching the hirsute Drummer Boy get slapped around and manhandled just may be enough to get your first wad. But try to hang on as Mr Drummer proceeds to slowly and sadistically cover Boy John's hairy tightbody with liquid fire candle wax. Retying Boy John on his knees with wrists and ankles bound together behind him, Mr Dawson lays on a prolonged full torso whipping on Boy John's tits, cock, and bound balls, the HARD way. After chest whipping Boy John to new limits, Mr Dawson turns his attention to his boy toy #2 who has been forced to watch John's session while stripped to a jock strap, head harnessed, and Fledermaus-bound to a bondage chair. After getting his freshly shaved tits flogged, Travis gets retied to John standing back-to-back, wrists bound together and stretched high to a ceiling hook. Using a dazzling globe-shaped violet wand, Mr Dawson shoots enough juice to Travis and John's nipple-ringed tits, flailed cocks, and bouncing balls to light up your darkest electro-fantasies. Still wrist suspended but turned around to face each other, Daddy Dawson finishes his boys off with a double back and butt whipping. After fully having his way, Dawson releases his boys to allow them to thank him properly with some sweaty pit and cock sucking body worship. USSM/THREE is very hot stuff!
